FIESTA PLANNED

The modern day Moraga and his settlers will participate in a South San Francisco celebration — the highlight of their trek through the North County. On hand for a sign raising last week were (from left), artist Dean Messer, Latino community representative Letty Juarez, El Charro restaurant owner Emilio Gutierrez, Barbara Hitchcock and Marge Lockwood. The activities will begin at 6 p.m. Friday with a Mexican dinner for $3 a person and a show at South San Francisco High School auditorium for 50 cents. The outdoor fiesta is free. At 10 a.m. Saturday, the Moraga expedition will travel down Grand Avenue.

Extortion Racket Uncovered

Two Juveniles Held

By FRANK LaPIERRE

The arrest of two juveniles at Westmoor High School in Daly City has brought to light an extortion racket police say is flourishing in many high schools today.

School authorities say they are doing everything possible to curb the often-violent crime. But so numerous are the gangs operating at local high schools and junior high schools that these school officials are unable to eliminate the problem.

When school administrators learn of an incident involving extortion at a school, police are called and arrests usually follow.

Thursday, two 17-year-olds were arrested and charged with extortion after they allegedly forced several students to hand over their lunch money or face punishment.

A third juvenile has been identified as a member of the gang and police expect to arrest him later today. All were sent to Hillcrest Juvenile Hall.

Actually, school gangs are nothing new.

For years these gangs forced other students to pay a sort of "protection policy premium" or get beat up, police explain.

The beatings would come from the gang members the young victim was paying to protect him — or her.

What is new, police explain, is the phenomenal growth of these gangs in Daly City schools.

Normally, school children pay tougher students a sort of daily fee not to get beat up. If this token isn't cash, it may be some other item, radio or bracelet, it was learned.

The gangs themselves might be from outside the school and hang around only to collect "premiums" from students attending classes there.

Recently, one young victim was unable to pay — for one reason or another.

He was confronted in front of his Westlake home by a gang member, dragged inside his own garage and made to stand on a chair beneath a rafter.

A rope was then looped over a rafter and secured around his neck.

He was told to lean forward, at which time the chair was kicked out from under him.

Police said the boy "swung back and fourth a couple of times before he was cut down."

He quickly paid the extortion money.

"Many tips come from parents whose children seem to spend a lot of money," Daly City Police Lt. Tom Culley explains.

"School officials are cooperating and doing what they can — when they learn of an incident — to stop this racket. But no one seems to have the final answer," Culley said.

NORTH COUNTY EDITION

THE POST

Vol. 30, No. 25 | DELIVERED EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING | WEDNESDAY, JUNE 23, 1976

Modern Day Moraga Leads Expedition

Two hundred years to the day that Joaquin Moraga led 240 men, women and children through what is now San Mateo County, a re-enactment of that same expedition will occur.

On Thursday, the Moraga party in full-costume will enter the south end of San Mateo County on horse back and travel north ending in a celebration at the Golden Gate Park polo fields Sunday.

The original and the re-enactment parties left Monterey June 17. The 1976 "settlers" are following a route similar to that taken by Moraga's expedition in 1776.

Carole Whitehill, county bicentennial coordinator, said 60 persons left the 1976-style party from Monterey and many San Mateo County residents are expected to join in as the expedition passes through the cities.

Members of the San Mateo County Horseman's Association and the Pacifica Calvary have planned to join on horseback. Stunning silver saddles and costumes representing the Spanish soldiers are expected to add color to the expedition.

Other county participants will include direct descendents of whose who rode with Moraga from June 17 to 27 in 1776 and continued to settle throughout the San Francisco Bay Area.

James and Betty Skilling of Half Moon Bay and their daughter, Leigh, will represent the family of Corp. Domingo Alviso, of which they are descendents.

Other members of their family will represent other Moraga expedition participants.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Trosy of Daly City and their children are direct descendents of Moraga and plan to march alongside the horseback party.

A College of San Mateo teacher who resides in Pacifica Don Galindo, will represent Nicholas Galindo.

And Anthony and Dorothy Lopez of Half Moon Bay will represent the Lopez family that traveled with Moraga.

"We are really welcoming any person who wants to walk along to do so," Mrs. Skilling said. "We would like to know about those who are direct descendents."

She said she didn't learn that her own family members were descendents of a Moraga party family until after she began working on bicentennial activities.

"There are probably many other people in the county who don't realize their heritage," she said.

Moraga was one member of the original party that left Mexico in 1774 and stayed in Monterey.

Westlake Seeks Rezoning

The Westlake Development Company, Inc., owners of the Westlake Shopping Center, has asked Daly City for a zoning change so an 11-story office-shopping complex can be erected on John Daly Boulevard.

Talk of such a high-rise has been heard for several years. This is the first "solid" move toward actual realization of such a structure, city officials point out.

Presently, the shopping center — proposed site of the high-rise — is zoned light commercial.

In order to allow construction of a high-rise, the area must be rezoned to heavy commercial (C-2), city planners said.

The city's Planning Commission will consider both the Environmental Impact Report (EIR) and the Westlake Development Co.'s application for a zoning change on Aug. 10 at City Hall.

According to the EIR, data gathered over the past 10 years indicates the center needs an "economic shot in the arm" and the high-rise structure may be just what is needed.

"Although the center has witnessed a rather steady, albeit gradual growth in its gross annual retail sales during the past decade, this appearance of vitality is somewhat deceiving," the EIR report states.

Actually, the center is losing money because of the steady decline in the "real" purchasing power of the dollar.

Opening of other shopping centers in the city, including Serramonte, are considered contributing factors in this decline, the report notes.

Opening of the high-rise would generate more jobs, thus more shopping dollars spent at the center, its proponents say.

Westlake's "boom years" ended with the opening of Serramonte several years ago, followed by construction of Serra Center in Colma and Tanforan in San Bruno.

Early fears of a few years ago that the Bay Area Rapid Transit station in Daly City would draw shoppers away from Westlake to downtown stores has never been realized, experts say.

Quite the opposite has proven true — shoppers from the Mission District of San Francisco have come to Westlake and Serramonte, it was pointed out.

And while Westlake Center has traditionally been the focal point for local shoppers, this position has gradually declined in recent years.

Westlake was built by Henry Doelger in 1959.

Access to its shops is off a landscaped mall, rather than an enclosed mall such as is found in today's giant shopping centers.

Doelger built the center on fill, some to depths of 25 feet. Cabbage patches and artichokes once grew on the site.

JESD Board Approves Application for Grant

By NANCY STENSON

A $603,241 consolidated application for state funding received the go-ahead from the Jefferson Elementary School District Governing Board June 16 as they plowed their way through a 31-item agenda that kept them working until the wee hours of the morning.

The application will seek funding for the following programs: Title 1 (compensatory education), Early Childhood Education, State Pre-school and the Miller-Unruh (reading specialists) program.

Also winning the board's approval was a $66,000 budget for the Mentally Gifted Minors Program, which its coordinator, Dorothy Hicks, explained offers exceptionally gifted children the opportunity to learn to the fullest extent of their capabilities.

Mrs. Hicks said at least $30,000 of the budget would hopefully be funded from the state, with another $10,000 coming from the consolidated application grant and $7,500 in capital equipment.

However, Mrs. Hicks reported, the receipt of the $30,000 is dependent on the state legislature passing Senate Bill 1605 (now bottled up in the Ways and Means Committee) which, if passed, would assure payment of $100 for each child enrolled in the MGM program as well as the establishment of a 4 per cent participation level in each district.

According to Carolee Padgett, a parent and member of the Daly City Friends of the Gifted, the MGM program is currently funded on a pro rata basis that has resulted in the JESD receiving only $72 per child.

If this bill does not pass, she warned, the state funding to MGM could drop even lower.

Mrs. Padgett said she attended a May 19 rally in Sacramento to enlist the aid of state legislators for the bill but that she wasn't encouraged by Assemblyman Louis Papan who told her that special education was not one of his priorities.

JESD board members voted to draw up a special resolution supporting the bill and forward it to Wilson Riles, state superintendent of schools and appropriate assemblymen.

The board firmed up Pete Hansen's appointment as acting assistant superintendent for administrative services for 1976-77 when they approved his annual salary of $30,254 plus a $75 per month mileage allowance effective June 14.

Board approval was also granted on the following appointments: Ronald Fortune as acting director of the Emergency School Aid Act, Ann Hale as head music teacher, and Barbara Davies as coordinator and Terry Burns as team leader of the Local Education Agency.

Dr. Chris Westphal, whose position as director of research and development was cut, will be allowed to remain through the month of July at one-twelfth of his annual salary.

Daly City Chamber Prepares for Year

Multi-City Programs Priority

A more determined attempt to get involved in multi-city programs will be paramount on the list of projects the Daly City Chamber of Commerce will undertake in the coming year.

This was revealed to a luncheon meeting of the chamber in Daly City by incoming president Charles K. Turner.

Turner, who is president of the First National Bank of Daly City, said he wants to actively pursue broadening the chamber's membership base, especially among shopping center merchants in Daly City and Colma.

And he said he thinks the chamber should begin discussing mutual problems with other North County cities — problems that can and should be solved by the county.

If the merchant groups from North County cities approach the county as a combined force, they will carry more weight, Turner pointed out.

Other items heading Turner's priority list include support for a North San Mateo County Predetention Arraignment Facility (PDF).

Presently, there is such a facility based at the Daly City jail. Funds for operating the jail are running out and the four north cities — San Bruno, South San Francisco, Daly City and Pacifica — which utilize this jail are seeking funds to continue the operation, hopefully on a more permanent basis, from the county.

Also, Turner said he feels the chamber should get involved in a crime prevention program, perhaps with cities surrounding Daly City.

In the field of employment, Turner said, "We should look to ourselves before hiring outside employes."

Daly City has the businesses and the work force to handle such a program, Turner said.

The chamber could provide lists of employment opportunities in the city and also conduct preinterview counseling, Turner said.

Parades — especially like the successful one held last week — also bring people to the community, and people mean money for shops in the city, Turner said.

Mayor Anthony Giammona, who swore in Turner and the chamber's new directors and officers, praised the work the chamber has been doing to further business in recent years.

"I like the way the chamber is moving, the way it is getting involved with various (county) programs," Giammona said.

The mayor praised the bicentennial parade of last week, commenting, "It's the best thing the city has had in many years . . . it brought people in our city together."

Emceeing the program was Frank Spadarella, vice president for Governmental Affairs.

Other officers and directors are:

Aldo Simonetti, first vice president; Frank Verducci, second vice president; Vince Merlo, VP for Economic Development; Don Bevilacqua, VP for Community Affairs; and Leon Scales, VP for Chamber Development.

Outgoing president James Howe, manager of Pacific Telephone Co., was presented with an inscribed gavel and a suitcase.

"I only wish you had given me a gavel when I took office last year. I was forced to pound two (soda pop) bottles together to bring meetings to order," Howe told Executive Director Peter Markovich.

Directors installed were Howe, Beverly Dikas, Robert Brandt, Scales, Maurice Wahba, Alfred Belotz, Bevilaqua, Al Vial, Paul Hupf, Ed King Sr., Merlo, Vince Murphy, Mrs. Anna Ohlendorf, Spadarella, Bud Duggan, Bunny Lycett and Charles Lewkowitz.

Bad DC Debts To Collectors

Daly City has turned over some $14,000 in uncollected water and garbage accounts to a local collection agency, the City Council was told Monday.

The debts were accumulated between Nov. 2, 1974, and Mar. 31, 1976, City Manager David Rowe said.

Rowe said collection of the debts will be pursued by collection agencies and in Small Claims Court.

Other matters discussed during a public study session at City Hall Monday night included plans and specifications for renovation of the 20-year-old Westlake Clubhouse.

The clubhouse is partially used by the Westlake Subdivisions Improvement Association (WSIA) which has a joint venture agreement on use of the structure with the city.

Earlier Monday, the WSIA Board of Directors approved expenditure of some $19,500 as its share of remodeling costs of the structure, Rowe said.

Total cost of the project is estimated at $42,630.

The Daly City Redevelopment Agency is expected to hear alternative design concepts from its consultants concerning the Mission street and Junipero Serra Blvd. redevelopment target areas on July 6.

Rowe asked for a joint Project Area Committee-DCRA meeting on that date to review alternatives presented by DASA, the joint venture consultant team hired by the city to make the study.

Suspicious Phone Calls Reported

San Bruno Police are investigating reports of suspicious telephone calls being made to residents in the North County.

According to Police Chief Russell Cunningham, unknown persons reportedly are telephoning homes and asking residents if their houses are equipped with any backup devices should there be an electrical power failure.

"Naturally," said Cunningham, "in practically all instances the resident states that his home is not equipped for such an emergency."

The caller, then asks, the chief reported, if the resident will be at home in the evening so that an inspection of the home can be made and recommendations for emergency equipment can be offered.

The chief said that in all cases when the resident said he would be at home, nobody called at the house.

The chief says he believes that the conversation about the emergency electric supply and the appointment are only bits of conversation and that actually an inquiry is being made to determine if the house will be vacant and thus a likely target for a burglary.

Old Taxation Cry Re-Echoes

By FRANK LaPIERRE

The last time citizens screamed about taxation without representation they ended up tossing tea in Boston Harbor, writing the Declaration of Independence and starting a war with the British.

George Smith, president of the Daly City Mission Merchants Association, is today screaming about taxation without representation — 200 years after the original slogans were shouted on the nation's opposite sea coast.

And while Smith has no intention of tossing tea into the ocean off Thornton Beach (he fears the State Water Quality Control Board might nail him for pollution), he has started a War of Words.

The campaign is being directed at the seat of county government, miles away in Redwood City.

"The lack of representation by Daly City residents on county boards and commissions is appalling," Smith (who has the same first name as the Father of Our Country) said.

Yet the county shows an utter lack of concern for Daly City, he said.

With an assessed valuation of $173,242,666, Daly City ranks number 5 of all incorporated cities in San Mateo County.

And with its population of 72,500, the county's northernmost city ranks second in size to all cities (San Mateo is first).

"With this huge base of potential influence, minimal provisions for county services and amenities are available to local residents," Smith said. "In order to balance services porportionately to the tax base Daly City should have local branch offices of all appropriate county facilities, including a full service Superior Court."

This is the same argument voiced by Daly City officials for more than a decade. In each case it has received little response from the county, records indicate.

The reason? County officials counter that fragmented or decentralized services are unmanageable and costly.

On this, the nation's 200th birthday, Smith feels it is time to drag out the old arguments for local county services and dust them off.

"A war of independence, 200 years ago, was fought because taxation without representation is tyranny. That theme is just as viable today in our situation," Smith said.

Smith presented a list of county service demands including: adequate health facilities; a welfare and social services office; North County jail; full service branch of the county clerk-recorders office; full service Superior Court; toll-free North County phone numbers for all county offices (residents now pay the same as persons living in San Francisco); increased representation by Daly City residents on county boards and commissions.

There should also be representatives of certain county programs in a North County facility based in Daly City, Smith said.

These would include Human Relations Commission; Economic Opportunity Commission; county engineer; county assessor; planning department, and, Area Agency on Aging.

Three weeks ago, fellow police commissioner John McCloskey questioned Johnson's dual role as a commissioner and reserve

West Point Appointee Anticipates Four-Year Test

One Rigorous Summer Ahead

(Dave Dornias Photo)

Bob Luster, West Point bound

By JANET PARKER

Bob Luster is "scared to death" in anticipation of July 7.

That's the day the South San Francisco High School graduate will begin what he hopes will be a four-year residency at the United States Military Academy, West Point, N.Y.

Luster, 17, will join 4,000 cadets at a time when the academy is facing criticism that it's traditions — including the "honor code" — have been carried too far.

Luster, who was nominated to the academy by U.S. Sen. John Tunney, indicates he isn't kidding himself about West Point life.

"You have to drive yourself to your limit and never stop," Luster said. "Anything less and you're not right for the academy."

He expects to go through a self-evaluation process while at West Point — particularly in the first few months of a rigorous summer training camp where the day begins with 5:30 a.m. reveille and cadets are physically active until 10 p.m.

"They're not trying to break you but they are trying to find your breaking point," said Luster, a tall, muscular football player.

It's natural to wonder why a 17-year-old who spent 12 years in the relatively carefree public school system would voluntarily surrender civilian life for a rigorous academic training that's as much to be dreaded as enjoyed.

"West Point will let me look at myself and see what type of person I really am," Luster said. "I'll see how I can cope with different situations.

"It's going to be rough. There will be times when I will wonder what the hell I am doing here. But I want to graduate from that school and I will do it," he said.

Luster was in his junior year at South City High when he first became interested in West Point.

An all-county running back, his football coach gave him brochures of universities and colleges throughout the country, but the West Point literature most attracted his attention.

After correspondence with the academy, the West Point assistant football coach made a trip to South San Francisco and visited the Lusters. He set up a projector, showed films in their home and gave them convincing literature.

"It looks like a very rigid program that refines any raw talents an individual has upon entering the program," Luster said.

Each legislator may nominate three persons — a principal and two alternates. Luster was Tunney's principal.

In fact, there are 10,000 applicants every year and only 1,000 are accepted to the freshman class.

However, West Point and football are not synonymous, the new cadet said.

If it comes to the point where he would be forced to quit football to keep up with West Point academics, he won't hesitate to curtail his athletic career, he said.

"Athletics is second to the fact that I am going to West Point," he said.

Luster said the scandal in which more than 200 students are believed to have committed honor code violations hasn't tarnished his image of the academy.

The honor code, he said, is part of the 174-year-old tradition that makes West Point the kind of campus it is.

The code — "A cadet will not lie, cheat or steal or tolerate those who do" — is drilled into each cadet's mind from the moment of acceptance and there's no reason it should be abandoned, he said.

However, he questions the manner in which West Point officials handled the cheating scandal.

The junior class examination at the center of the controversy should have been thrown out or the entire class's exams should have been reviewed before severe action was taken, he claimed.

"It's a lot of pressure on an 18-year-old to turn in a best friend or roommate because he is suspicious that person has cheated," he said.

The punishment, he said, needn't have been as drastic as expulsion.

"It was just making a disgrace of the entire academy," he said. And that academy represents, in essence, Uncle Sam and the country as a whole.

Cheating is an occurrence in every college, Luster pointed out, and the West Point officials could have taken more reasonable action.

But the honor code, he said, is essential if West Point is to maintain the standards for which it is known.

Luster will be among the first West Point class to include women. There were 100 women and 900 men accepted into this fall's class.

He said he has no objections to West Point's new co-ed status, after all, he's been going to school with females for 12 years.

"Times are changing. There's no reason women can't do this job."

Luster said there is much concern on the part of West Point officials that a prospective cadet must want to go to West Point to satisfy himself and not his parents or anyone else.

West Point, he said, is seeking military-oriented individuals — not just anyone.

When he graduates in four years, Luster will have a five-year military comitment ahead of him. By then, he will be 26 and will have to decide if he wants to continue with a military career or return to civilian life.

He's already psyching himself up for the academy. One of the essential characteristics of a cadet, he said, is a sense of humor. He said it's a key to survival and to retaining one's sanity at West Point.

"Like they say, it's not a nice place to go but it's a nice place to come from," he said.

Coroner's Office Merger Approved

Merger of investigative and administrative functions of the County Coroner's office, and improvement of morgue facilities at Chope Community Hospital, was approved Tuesday by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

The plan had been recommended by Henry P. Tarratt, director of building construction and general services.

Vince Buckhout, a member of the County Grand Jury which recommended consolidation and deplored sanitary conditions at the morgue in a report last month, commended the board for "getting going" on the recommendations.

The functions of the Coroner-Public Administrator Office currently are carried out at five locations in the central and south county area.

Tarratt's recommendations which were adopted by the board:

• "Leave the coroner's lab in its present location at Canyon Hospital west of Redwood City.

• Move the investigative staff from Canyon to space in Chope Hospital in San Mateo.

• Relocate the coroner's administrative operations from the Department of Health and Welfare building in San Mateo to Chope Hospital.

Tarratt also proposed a number of improvements to modernize and improve the morgue, although no additional space can be provided for the facility in its present location.

The coroner's warehouse will remain in its present rented quarters in San Carlos, and the vehicle storage area will remain at the county corporation yard in Redwood City.

Tarratt estimated the cost of the relocations and the morgue improvement at $44,500.

SSF Considering Library Staff Cut

Library Board members claim South San Francisco probably will have to drop from the Peninsula Library System if the City Council approves a $4,000 reduction in part-time salaries.

The council has listed the cutback among its list of alternatives to balance its budget.

Whether the part-time hours will be reduced won't be determined until August.

Jack Ferro, South City Library Board president, has asked the City Council to seriously consider the possible effect of reducing part-time employe hours.

In a letter to the council, Ferro said the City Council in 1974 assured that it would help the Library Board if it ever appeared South San Francisco was in danger of having to withdraw from the system.

"It would reflect poorly on the City of South San Francisco to be the only California city to withdraw from a regional library program," Ferro said.

The Peninsula Library System, implemented in most San Mateo County cities in 1970, allows any library card holder to check out a book from another city's library.

The system also utilizes a teletype machine. If a library patron has a specific question and his or her own city library does not have the reference materials to answer it, the question is sent out on the teletype.

Library personnel in other cities throughout the county can then respond to the question using their library's reference materials.

Ferro said South San Franciscans are borrowing more than 100 books a week from other libraries in the county.

The teletype, he said, enables residents to secure information faster.

Until now, it has not cost the city to be part of the system. In 1976-77 there will be dues of $2,400, although there are to be no payments in following years.

Ferro said if the council proceeds with its proposal to cut part-time salaries, there will be no employe available to operate the teletype. That machine has been operated by a federally funded CETA employe who is leaving the city in July.

Library Director Dr. William Alvarez said he will attempt to devise a way to stay in the system even if the council does approve the part-time salary cutback.

However, he's not sure how that would be accomplished.

Alvarez said South San Francisco joined the system in 1974 and was one of the last cities to do so.

The library is now circulating more than 25,000 volumes a year to other cities — primarily San Bruno and Daly City.

Almost every county in the state, he said, now has a regional system.

Mayor Leo Padreddii said he does not recall a specific commitment by the council to retain the library's involvement in the Peninsula Library System.

The council, he said, will have to discuss the Library Board's concern when it meets again at the end of July.

Three councilmen will be on vacation until then.

The council this year has asked for alternatives to balance the city's $9 million budget from each department head.

The budget as presently proposed has a $764,000 deficit and the reduction of library part-time salaries is just one of the proposed alternative cuts affecting employes.

The council is considering eliminating a library assistant position. They also discussed the possible deletion of the principal librarian but decided to retain that person.

"It's easy for everyone to want something but it's hard to give when there's nothing to give," Padreddii said.

If the council doesn't make some of the cuts being considered, it may have to make more drastic cuts in other areas, Padreddii said.

demands teachers be given a 30-day notice prior to the end of the semester if they won't be rehired. 15 teachers returned to school last September only to find themselves with nothing to do for a period of from five to nine days.

The board approved payment of $923.82 to compensate those teachers who had to wait until the special programs they were to teach could get underway.

The board members assured themselves and the audience that this would not happen again.

A mini-view of the JESD multicultural education program now operative in 19 of the district's schools under the direction of Ronald Fortune was presented to the board by Fortune and his staff — Lucile Perry, Harriet Jones, Audrey Chan, Linda Ng, Lyn Ducken and Jane Lualhat.

The program, termed a "success" by Fortune, makes broad use of the media through research and writing of lesson plans that are incorporated into the social studies curriculum, teacher training to bring more multicultural ideas into the classroom, school-site multicultural activities to strengthen the instruction and involvement of students, and the involvement of parents in multicultural programs in their school.

A film presentation prepared by the multicultural staff entitled, "Our Kids Yours and Mine," said the program was aimed at making the kids feel good about themselves by allowing them to learn about themselves and their culture.

"If kids don't feel good about themselves, they won't do well in school and will demonstrate such possible side effects as vandalism, absentism, and a lack of respect for neighbors and the community," reported the film.

"You can tell the program is working when you look into the children's eyes and at their smiles and expressions of joy as they learn about themselves and others."

As a reminder that the Martinez school bus tragedy that claimed the lives of at least 28 youngsters and one adult companion is still with us, Mary Hart questioned the board on the safety of the school buses.

She said she had observed a JESD bus carrying a crowd of youngsters to the Cow Palace for a music concert and it appeared overloaded.

Mrs. Hart said the bus carried at least three children to a seat.

If the bus had to brake suddenly, she said the children would have been rammed into the bars in front of their seats.

Beverly Forrester, JESD board chairman, told her the district policy permitted three to a seat and that some buses held 66, others 90.

Mrs. Hart also said she is concerned about funding for the trip, which she said probably served only a few students.

Moraga then led the soldiers, women and children north to settle. His party arrived in San Francisco on June 27, 1776, dedicated the Presidio Sept. 17, and founded Mission Dolores Oct. 9.

The Moraga expedition will be enroute to Huddart Park at 9 a.m. Thursday and will lunch there, proceed to Woodside for a 2 p.m. plaque dedication and ride through the watershed in the afternoon.

The party will have dinner at Crystal Spring Rehabilitation Center and spend the night at El Portal del Sol, both in San Mateo.

On Friday, the Moraga group will entertain the children at the rehabilitation center and will leave for Hillsdale Shopping Center along Ralston Avenue and Old County Road in Belmont where some activities are planned.

They are scheduled to appear at Hillsdale Mall from noon-1:30 p.m.

From there, the expedition will ride to Polhemus Road, up Crystal Springs Road, through the watershed property, and down Sneath Lane in San Bruno.

The party will enter South San Francisco just south of Spruce Avenue on El Camino Real at approximately 5 p.m. A free outdoor Spanish fiesta will be held at 8 p.m. with dancing, music and games.

It will parade down Grand Avenue in South San Francisco at 10 a.m. Saturday, travel over San Bruno Mt. to Brisbane for lunch and arrive at the Cow Palace at approximately 4:30 p.m. to spend the night.

Sunday morning the expedition will ride to the polo fields in Golden Gate Park for a 2 p.m. celebration and ceremony by the California Heritage Guides.

Fireworks Confiscated

A Daly City man was arrested Sunday and more than $2,000 in illegal fireworks confiscated by Brisbane police at a local flea market.

The arrest of David Clark Czerwinski, 28, of 381 Bellevue Ave., Daly City culminated several weeks of undercover work by fire investigator Tim Cerri, police said.

Except for "safe and sane" fireworks, all other pyrotechnic materials are illegal for sale in San Mateo County, police explained.

The flea market where Czerwinski allegedly sold the fireworks to undercover agents is at the end of Tunnel Road in Brisbane.

Many Activities At Sanchez Library

During the summer months, Wednesdays will be fun days at the Sanchez Library in the Linda Mar Shopping Center.

There will be speakers from the Peninsula Humane Society who will be talking about pet care; the San Mateo County Historical Society will tell about the history of Pacifica; the San Mateo County Dental Society will be sending someone who will be showing the right way to take care of teeth and what to expect when we go to the dentist's office.

Hopefully there will also be speakers from Coyote Point and Moss Beach. On alternate weeks there may be meetings of a book club whose members will be helping to make a story quilt as well as publishing a book review service for the young and young adult readers of the library.

All of these events will be taking place at the Sanchez Library at 2 p.m. on Wednesdays.

As special surprise, children will be making drums, going on a Bicentennial Book Hunt (using codes and ciphers) or doing other things.

Check with the library (in person or by phone 359-2000) or in this newspaper for up-to-the-minute information about Wednesday programs.

No Charges Filed in Boy's Death

District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson announced yesterday that his office has decided not to file any criminal charges in connection with the May 12 tragedy in which a four-year-old boy died inside a stored refrigerator at his babysitter's home in South San Francisco.

While there is a law which prohibits unlocked, abandoned refrigerators, Sorenson said that his office does not believe that the legislature "meant this to be a violation because it was at a private home."

New Move for San Bruno Tree Ordinance

By RICK SULLIVAN

San Bruno City Manager Gerald Minford has recommended to the City Council that it adopt a tree and shrubbery ordinance which clearly defines who is responsible — the city or the property owner — for maintenance of foliage along city streets.

If the council approves Minford's recommendation, the city will lessen its control over what can be done to existing trees and shrubs beyond maintaining them in a safe condition.

The city manager presented the countil last week with a 93-page report on city trees and shrubs. The report, prepared by the Parks Department, identifies species of each tree and shrub lining city streets.

Minford told the council that about 75 per cent of the street trees are causing damage of one kind or another.

He said the trees are uprooting sidewalks, driveways, curbs and gutters; damaging underground utilities, and interfering with overhead utilities.

"It is clear that a program must be established," Minford said, "to correct the problems they have caused in the past, and to create a new program which over a period of time will lead to a more attractive community ..."

The city manager advised that a city policy should be enacted to determine who is responsible for the maintenance of trees and shrubs in public rights-of-way; who is legally responsible for damage to improvements and utilities; to what extent the city should regulate planting, trimming and removal of trees, and which trees should be the responsibility of the property owner and which should be the responsibility of the city.

Minford recommended to the council that the city should:

• Reaffirm that ownership and responsibility of trees and shrubs planted in public rights-of-way lies with the property owner.

• Reduce its control over what can be done to existing trees and shrubs by limiting that control to the requirement that plantings must be maintained in a safe condition.

• Initiate a 15-to-20-year tree planting program.

• Establish a clear policy of detailing what work city crews will do to maintain street trees. Minford suggested that the work be limited to safety pruning.

• Regulate the types of plantings in parks and canyons and control pruning and removal of trees on property owned by the city.

"I believe an aggressive planting program will in the long run more than offset the loss of trees and shrubs as a result of the deregulation," Minford said.

"If we are going to say to the property owner," he continued, "that the trees belong to him and he must assume the responsibility for them, then we cannot, except for safety reasons, dictate to the property owner what should or should not be done with his property.

"Likewise," Minford added, "the property owner should not expect the public to maintain property which belongs to an individual."

Warning On Fires

Lack of winter rains — about half the season's average — has brought an unusually early drying of the grass and chaparral covering Pacifica's hillsides.

Fire Chief Cal Hinton observed that, "We are faced with a very serious brush fire problem this year. The season is about a month earlier than usual, and the moisture content of the fuel (brush) is expected to be the lowest in several years."

Statistics indicate that most of Pacifica's brush fires are started by children, usually unsupervised, playing with matches or fireworks.

SSF Facility Plan Doomed?

By JANET PARKER

The framework for South San Francisco's proposed public safety facility was toppled Wednesday night when the City Council voted to dissolve the non-profit corporation formed to finance the complex.

The fate of the $12 million police and fire facility — long the target of debate in that city — is now uncertain.

The council's unexpected action most likely will halt a lawsuit in the appellate court challenging the legality of a non-profit corporation.

And, it appears that the public safety facility plans will be scrapped, unless residents petition the council to place the construction on a city ballot or the council voluntarily puts the facility up for an election.

Only Councilman Richard Battaglia voted to keep the non-profit corporation and continue to defend the financing of the facility in the courts.

Battaglia pointed out that the council should heed the advice of its city attorney who asked the council to retain the non-profit corporation and not give in to political pressure.

The request to dissolve the corporation thereby discontinuing the facility plans came from Councilman William Borba.

Borba — who pledged in his campaign to curtail the present facility finance method — said the defense of the non-profit corporation in the courts is a waste of taxpayer's money.

He said that if South San Franciscans want the facility at all they should be given the opportunity to approve some kind of bonding on a city ballot.

The city's voters in 1974 failed to give the two-thirds per cent approval for bonds to build the facility. That's when the council formed the non-profit corporation and went ahead with the construction plans.

However, resident Ron Acosta has been challenging the legality of the finance method since then. He lost in San Mateo County Superior Court but has appealed the decision.

Acosta and the city are in the midst of filing briefs in the First District Court of Appeals.

City Atty. John Noonan said the defense of that facility with the assistance of a private law firm would cost approximately $15,000 — even if it is appealed again to the State Supreme Court.

Noonan bluntly told the council Wednesday night that the city might win or it might lose the case, but it should give the city a chance.

"We can't fight this politically as well as legally," Noona said. "Just give us a fair chance."

"Don't clip us on both sides. Let them win legally or let us win legally," Noonan said.

The attorney said he would like to see the court case through to the end.

Noonan also said the non-profit corporation is no expense to the city while it is not being used.

After court proceedings have terminated, the city could revive the corporation at no cost and use it as planned or as the bonding agency for revenue bonds.

"We are near the end of a long legal proceeding," Noonan said. "Don't second-guess the courts."

Stolen Property Verdict

A jury has found Gerald Fischl guilty on charges of attempting to receive stolen property at the Brisbane Flea Market in November, 1975.

Fischl, 44, was arrested by Brisbane police after he tried to buy an IBM electric typewriter he believed had been stolen, police charged.

Brisbane Det. Sgt. John Majka said, "The investigation into illegal transactions involving IBM electric typewriters at the flea market (at 601 Tunnel Road) began in August, 1975, when police received information of illegal activities there.

According to police, Fischl believed the typewriter had been stolen.

Majka said Fischl was arrested after negotiating for and buying an IBM electric typewriter from undercover agents of the Brisbane and San Francisco police departments.

The case was heard by Superior Court Judge James O. Miller at the North San Mateo County Courthouse in South San Francisco.

Protesting Parents Convince Board

SSF Principals Will Stay at Schools

By JANET PARKER

The protests of more than 200 persons at a meeting last week led the South San Francisco Unified School District Board of Trustees to cancel plans to transfer seven principals.

The board told parents, teachers and community members at a special meeting Tuesday that it will consider instead the transfer a year from now and will develop a formal guideline for transfers in the meantime.

Most of the concerned citizens called the decision a victory and applauded the board.

A few, however, were dissatisfied with the board's unwillingness to publicly state the vote of each individual trustee.

Trustees listened for more than an hour last week as community members protested an administrative decision to rotate the assignments of seven of the eight elementary school principals.

They pleaded with the board to reverse the decision so that the principals could continue working on bilingual programs they are developing at their schools.

Many said the transfer decisions were arbitrary, and demanded to know if there was a hidden reason for the transfers, which would have been enacted this fall.

With more than 150 residents again present Tuesday night, the board explained its decision in a prepared release.

"The board has received concerns from many quarters regarding the lack of guidelines for the orderly transfer of principals," the statement read. "The board recognizes those concerns and concurs with the need for guidelines established in advance of any planned rotation of personnel."

As a result, a policy will be written in the coming months.

"The procedure . . . will be used as the basis for administrative transfers in the 1977-78 school year and beyond," the release stated.

The board further stated that transfers have a positive impact within the schools and reaffirmed commitment to principal transfers.

Three board members met in a one-hour executive session to discuss unrelated personnel matters while the release was circulated. Trustees Tom Henkle and John Dillon were not present.

One teacher, Frankie Watkins, warned the residents that the fight isn't over.

"You didn't necessarily win," she said. "You got a one-year postponement."

She told them to make sure a policy representing their desires is developed.

When the trustees returned, most of the crowd was still waiting.

A Los Cerritos School parent, Dave Troy, said the community wants and deserves to know how each of the board members voted.

"I've got to vote next year and I've got to know who to vote out of office," Troy said. He was answered with applause.

Trustee Val Lambertson, who served as president in the absence of Chairman Henkle, said the release represented the board's consensus and that the item was not on the agenda for action.

Mrs. Lambertson said the board takes action as a body — not as individuals.

Troy, however, said the board still is hedging.

"We have a right to know who was against this directly," Troy said. "Let's vote them clear out of office and get rid of the headaches."

New provisions in California's open meeting laws require a governmental agency to record its roll call vote in a public session following an executive session.

However, Supt. Dr. Paul Nielsen said the board did not take a formal vote. Instead, it drew up a news release, he said.

SSF Classroom Teachers' Association president John Heron chided the board's handling of the transfer plans.

"We wish to point out the off-handed manner in which personnel are handled by the top administration — seemingly without regard for the process or the people," Heron said.

Heron said the board's news release still does not explain why the transfers were originally planned.

"I'm disturbed by what I see to be a profound lack of respect to the good people of this community," Heron said. "They still don't know why the original transfers were going to take place nor how each of you really feels about the transfers."

He said that if the board did not take an official vote, there is no assurance that anything has changed.

Mrs. Lambertson said community members last week demanded clearcut guidelines for transfer and that the board's release responds to that concern.

Members of the audience applauded her statement.

"I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart," said Nelva Martinez, a Martin School parent who had said transferring that school's principal would be a setback to bilingual programs.

A resident, Thomas Fee, suggested that the board include teachers and parents in developing a policy. He also suggested a "musical chairs" policy in which one-principal is returned to the classroom to teach each year.

The transfer plan had included principals Frank McNutt, Spruce School; Michael Miyahira, Junipero Serra; Eugene Sunia, Serra Vista; Barbara Loveless, Skyline; Emanuele Damonte, Los Cerritos; Romolo Braschi, Sunshine Gardens, and Doyle Ficken, Martin School.

Taping IRS Tax Audit Interview— Matean Makes Federal Case of It

By DAN COOK

Gregory Nakagawa wants to make a federal case out of it.

The 30-year-old former San Brunan, now living at 3170 Casa de Campo, San Mateo, has decided to fight an Internal Revenue Services audit of a tax return.

At this writing, a standoff prevails, and after several skirmishes, the ball has bounced back into the IRS court.

Nakagawa's travails began early this year when he received a form letter signed by IRS Agent Craig L. Wirth of the San Mateo IRS office, notifiying him that his return for tax year 1974 was under audit.

Nakagawa was told that Wirth would appear at his office at 9 a.m. on April 6. Nakagawa also was told to provide Wirth with work papers used in preparing his return, as well as a copy of his return for 1973.

Nakagawa brought the papers as directed, but had with him an item the IRS hadn't requested — a tape recorder.

According to a transcript of that meeting released by Nakagawa, the IRS official took umbrage at the recorder's presence.

"Ahh, you using this?" Wirth reportedly asked.

"Yes, I am," the transcipt shows Nakagawa replied.

"I'm sorry, I can't conduct any kind of audit with any kind of tape recording device," Wirth reportedly said.

"Why not?" Nakagawa reportedly asked.

"Because it's totally against our policies and regulations," Wirth reportedly explained. "If you're going to use it, then I'll just have to cut it off right here."

Nakagawa replied that he wanted to use it, but was reportedly again told that he couldn't.

Nakagawa then allegedly asked Wirth if he would sign a statement that he (Wirth) had appeared at the office for a discussion of Nakagawa's 1974 return, explaining that he intended to have it notarized.

The agent apparently balked.

"I'm not going to sign that...I don't know that I can," the transcipt credits Wirth as saying. "I'll check with it — if I can sign it, I will, but I can't (pointing to tape recorder) . . . . is that on?"

When Nakagawa replied in the affirmative, Wirth allegedly handed him a copy of a federal Privacy Act Notification, and left, saying, "I'll get back to you."

On April 8, Nakagawa received a note from Wirth, calling the taxpayer's attention to an attached excerpt from the IRS manual, saying that "as a general rule, examining officers shall not make or permit taxpayers to make tape . . . or other verbatim recordings of conversations, meetings, or other verbal exchanges during examinations."

"Verbatim recording would adversely affect the informal nature of examinations and would inhibit the free exchange of information and opinions," the IRS directive stated.

Wirth's note directed Nakagawa to seek "special circumstances" consideration from the IRS district director. The letter was signed, "Craig Wirth, Internal Revenue Agent, FA:1246."

Instead of seeking such consideration, Nakagawa fired off a reply to Wirth.

"Dear FA:1246," Nakagawa's letter began. "Thank you for your letter . . . bringing to my attention the clear and present danger of an IRS-imposed ban against the use of private tape recorders during individual income tax audits.

"It never ceases to amaze me to what length the IRS will go to destroy individual liberty in pursuit of their plunder," the letter added.

Nakagawa added that he believed the IRS tape recorder ban is a violation of Articles IV, V, VI, IX and X of the Bill of Rights of the Constitution.

"Until this self-imposed ban on tape recorders by the IRS is tried and proven legal in the courts of the Judicial branch of our government, I shall continue to exercise my basic prerogative of transcription — as a God-protected and Constitution-protected citizen of the United States," Nakagawa's letter concluded.

On June 2, the bureaucracy struck back. Nakagawa received an official summons, commanding him to appear before Wirth with the aforementioned documents.

Notifying Nakagawa of the consequences of failure to appear, Wirth ordered Nakagawa to appear Tuesday under penalty of a $1,000 fine and a year in federal prison.

"After you walked out on our audit . . . because I wanted to have a transcipt of the proceedings, I was disappointed further to learn your only answer to my questions on individual rights was to bring me a summons," Nakagawa replied to Wirth.

"Why did you not answer any of my questions on Constitutional protection?" Nakagawa asked. "And why bring me a summons? As a law-abiding citizen and taxpayer, I would have honored even a postcard from you.

". . . In compliance with the Miranda decision, the veracity of the investigation itself must be well established as concerning the protection of my Constitutional rights," Nakagawa added. "For these reasons, I want — and am entitled to — a transcript of my audit proceedings.

"I am more than happy to respond to your 'summons' — even though it was not issued by a court of law," Nakagawa concluded. "I hope you will have no objection to my recording our discussion."

Apparently, the IRS knew what was coming. In order to prepare for the impending media barrage for information on the Nakagawa case, Greg Crosby, IRS public affairs officer, was moved to San Mateo from his San Francisco office the day of the Nakagawa hearing.

In addition, Wirth had sought permission himself from IRS District Director Frank Browitt to record the encounter. They were waiting for the recalcitrant taxpayer when he arrived, tape recorder in his hand.

The affair is still up in the air after Tuesday's hearing, for Nakagawa stuck to his guns about what he considers a violation of his rights.

As both the government recorder and Nakagawa's churned through the audit, the San Matean refused to yield on his questions about them.

"They terminated the proceedings before we were through," the feisty businessman explained today, "because they refused to read me my rights under the Miranda decision."

Nakagawa explained that since he, like all taxpayers, is required to execute an oath under penalty of perjury that the audit results are correct, he refused on Constitutional grounds to present the records he had in his briefcase or sign the result until after he had been informed of his rights.

The IRS declined to read his rights to him, so no records, no signature. The IRS then concluded the round, terminating the interview.

What does Nakagawa intend to do next, he was asked.

"Wait for them," he explained. "We'll pursue this as far as need be."

"The ball's back in their hands," Nakagawa said. "I'm not just doing this for myself, I'm doing it for everybody.

"What we're trying to do is make the IRS operate within the law, which it generally tends to negotiate around. If that makes it better for everyone else, that's fine and dandy," he said.

Presumably, the matter will not be dropped by the IRS, and further legal proceedings are just around the corner. Will Nakagawa retain an attorney?

"It will take a tax attorney, not an ordinary attorney," the taxpayer said. "I am not indigent, but I cannot afford the services of a tax attorney.

"Presumably, if I cannot afford a tax attorney, the government will have to appoint one to represent me," Nakagawa said, explaining that a U.S. attorney will have to be consulted by the IRS before a subpoena can be issued for his records.

Prior to returning to his office in San Francisco, Crosby gave the IRS point of view of the case.

"Its a civil issue, and it's (giving Miranda rights) something that's just not done — it never has been done in the past — it is not needed," Crosby said.

"He refused to go on without it, so we terminated the interview," Crosby explained.

"Our feeling going into this thing this morning was that we wanted to be as cooperative as possible," Crosby said. "We really think we've bent over backwards trying to do this."

What will the IRS do next?

"We have other alternatives, but they involve the taxpayer's account, so I'm afraid we can't comment on that," the spokesman said, "because that would invoke disclosure."

Asked to comment on the section quoted by the IRS to Nakagawa banning recorders, Crosby gave a peek into the IRS bureaucracy.

"This is a part of our Internal Revenue manual," Crosby explained. "It's not based on law, but is, you know, part of our written policy, like a guideline from the national office.

"You can understand, you know, that in a large bureaucracy, the need for having some sort of guidelines and directives for doing and accomplishing your work.

"This is a part of the manual that we follow, and generally we would follow the policy of not allowing an examination to be tape-recorded.

"We decided to allow the recording in order to get the audit completed," Crosby explained.

What will happen next is anybody's guess. Both Nakagawa and the Internal Revenue Service appear resolute.

Help Wanted

The following agencies have requested assistance from the Volunteer Bureau/Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County.

SAMARITAN HOUSE — A training session for anyone interested in volunteering for this Community Service will take place on Wednesday. The session covers training in all types of services for families, food and clothing; other volunteer tasks involve answering the telephones and greeting the public.

SUICIDE PREVENTION — New volunteers will be trained in crisis counseling, intervention and companionship at sessions beginning July 10. Prospective volunteers will be interviewed prior to orientation and training. A typist is also needed to help in the office.

PARENTAL STRESS HOTLINE — The next training session will begin at 7:30 p.m. on July 20. The Parental Stress service is designed to give parents relief from stress arising from interactions with their children; it also introduces parents to alternate ways of handling stress.

SAN MATEO UNION HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT — A person to do telephone follow-up work on newsletters sent out to the community. The work can be done by a teen-age or adult volunteer during the evenings, Monday through Friday.

JUNIOR LEAGUE — A research assistant to help prepare the Money Resource Index for San Mateo County. The work includes interviewing and compiling information for publication.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS — Teacher aides, minimum age 15 years, to help in the classrooms. The volunteers will give assistance in reading clinics, mathematical problems, physical activities, arts and crafts and additional subjects. The schools are located in San Mateo, Burlingame and Foster City.

Students in the San Mateo Union High School District may volunteer for summer school School/Community Service positions in elementary schools, camps, facilities for the handicapped, hospitals and non-profit agencies. They can register with the School/Community Service coordinator as well as with the Volunteer Bureau's Burlingame office.

The bureau maintains offices in Burlingame and Redwood City. Additional information can be obtained by contacting the Burlingame office at 119 Primrose Road. It is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

A project of the Assistance League of San Mateo County, the bureau shares in the United Way of the Bay Area. It is funded, in part, by the county of San Mateo.

What Students Want Proves Surprising

Teen-agers in San Mateo County plan to go to college, hope to continue living at home, and report that half their number have no skills with which to hold a job.

Members of "AWARE," Active Women Advancing Responsible Environment, found this information "startling" and "shocking" when it turned up in a survey conducted among 1,500 students at seven high schools.

"AWARE had decided to find out just what the students really want," said Barbara Pruett, state vice president.

"They're the ones who are going to have to face our problems in the years to come."

Instead of wanting condominium living and apartments, instead of wanting small families or no children at all, today's youngsters are home-loving and family-oriented, she said.

"These are opposite trends to those which are publicly accepted," said Vi Gotelli, president of AWARE.

"This is not what you read in the media, or what we are led to believe.

"We are not preparing for these young people in the work force in building homes, in anything."

Mrs. Gotelli said her organization had come into being within the past two years to counter the "stop progress" activities of environnentalists and others who assume they speak for today's young.

To determine whether this was true or not, she suggested, a 15-question survey was prepared and submitted to 1,500 students at high schools in San Mateo County during May.

The survey showed:

- After high school, 77 per cent expect to attend college, 11 per cent plan to go to a trade school, and 36 per cent expect to seek jobs.
- Half of those responding feel they have no skill that would qualify them for employment.
- After leaving school, 58 per cent expect to continue living with their families, 39 per cent plan to rent an apartment.
- California is favored as a living place by 90 per cent, with 48 per cent favoring a stay in San Mateo County.
- Establishing a family, someday, is a goal for 86 per cent, and 3.1 children is the average ideal.
- Hoping to own their own homes some day are 97 per cent of those answering, with 65 per cent favoring a detached single family dwelling and 11 per cent desiring a townhouse.
- Factors most important in choosing a place to live, the survey showed, were ranked in this order: neighborhood, location, home, weather, school facilities, cost, job location, shopping facilities, recreation facilities and transportation;

Agricultural Chief to Retire

San Mateo County Agricultural Commissioner Claude W. Bridges informed the Board of Supervisors Tuesday that he intends to retire Oct. 1.

Bridges, 64, who has been agricultural commissioner since No. 7, 1972, when he was named to succeed Victor Ganavese upon the latter's retirement, told the board that he and his wife, Elsie, have purchased a home in Lakeport, Lake County, and intend to do some boating and fishing. They presently reside in Menlo Park.

Bridges was an inspector with the County Agricultural Department from 1952 to 1955, when he was graduated from the College of San Mateo at the age of 44. In 1956 he joined the Kings County Agricultural Department, becoming commissioner there before leaving in 1969 to rejoin the San Mateo County department as Canavese's assistant.

THE DONACIANO IBARRAS

(Guadalupe Robinson)

Robinson-Ibarra

Hawaii was the honeymoon destination of Mr. and Mrs. Donaciano Ibarra Jr. (Guadalupe Linda Robinson) who exchanged vows at Park Chapel in Reno and are making their first home in South San Francisco.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Robinson , and the bridegroom is the son of the senior Donaciano Ibarras. Both families live in South San Francisco.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father-in-law, recited her vows in a white crepe gown with a matching bolero and a tiny floral neckline. She carried orchids.

Ofelia Valencia served as her new sister-in-law's maid of honor; she wore a white dress.

Best man duties were performed by Joe Valencia, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

The newlyweds are both South San Francisco High School graduates.

Ricci Robinson is the bride's brother and Robert Valdes is her foster brother.

The bridegroom has several brothers and sisters including Anna Cortez, Leonora Alvarez, Concepcion Huerta, Lucero Delgado, Eglantina Garcia, Guadalupe Ibarra, Agatato Ibarra and Jose Maria Ibarra.

The bridegroom, who has also studied at Skyline College, is planning a career in law enforcement.

Sally Azzopardi Becomes Bride

The Church of the Nativity in Menlo Park was the setting recently for the marriage of Sally Azzopardi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Salvador Azzopardi of that city, and James Lockie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Lockie of South San Francisco.

The 11 a.m. ceremony was followed by a reception at the Elks Lodge in Redwood City.

As Sally and her father approached the altar, she was wearing a gown, made by her mother, of imported German fabric with a bodice of embroidered lace. She carried three white, long-stemmed roses surrounded by baby's breath and fern.

Mrs. Azzopardi also made all the gowns for the wedding party. Sleeveless dresses of blue Luzon fabric were worn by Diane Baynes, the matron of honor, and Christine, Dianne and Joan Azzopardi, sisters of the bride, who served as bridesmaids.

Melinda Azzopardi, the junior bridesmaid, and Melanie Azzopardi, the flower girl, were dressed in white eyelet.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids each carried three long-stemmed Tropicana roses with fern and baby's breath. The junior attendants had small nosegays of Tropicana baby roses, carnations and baby's breath.

Dennis Baynes was best man, and guests were seated by Joe Azzopardi, Randy Shurson and Mike McCarthy.

Sally is also the sister of Donald Azzopardi. She attended Holy Cross High School in Mountain View; James studied at El Camino High School and the College of San Mateo. He is the brother of Mrs. Anthony Navarra.

Knock Leads to Seniors Help

When Mildred Lorenzan knocks on a door and says she's looking for South San Franciscans who are "over 50," it breaks the ice.

"They say, 'Oh yes, I'm 60' or 70 or 89' " she said.

The city's new senior outreach aide — a senior citizen herself — is devoting 10 hours a week to informing as many of the city's 3,800 seniors as possible of special services available to them.

In fact, the center's goal is to contact 1,856 seniors — 204 of those low-income and 149 minorities.

Mrs. Lorenzan started the field work this month and has been concentrating on the northwest section of South San Francisco.

The South San Francisco outreach project is funded by a grant from the San Mateo County Area Agency on Aging.

The county agency received some $50,000 in all but the $5,890 appropriated to South San Francisco went to the Economic Opportunity Commission.

Her local sponsor is the Parks and Recreation Department.

Mrs. Lorenzan has made more than 50 contacts already — and has walked California, Commercial, Magnolia, Olive and Arden avenues in her search for seniors.

The most common complaint that she hears from seniors, she said, is one for which she can provide little assistance. Many protest the high cost of renting homes or apartments as well as the devaluation of the dollars they worked to earn and save most of their lives.

"People on fixed incomes are the real victims," she said. "Laborers can strike and their wages go up. But when seniors get an increase in Social Security or another source, it's a drop in the bucket.

"Sometimes," she said, "I'm able to patch up a few emotional problems."

Mrs. Lorenzan lived and taught in Guatemala 10 years and speaks Spanish fluently, a helpful skill in the city's poverty area.

She said the contact of one senior citizen with another is invaluable.

"When you talk to someone your age or older, you become a social equal," she said. "They react to me in an entirely different manner than someone who has not been down that road."

Her assistance of senior citizens has taken many forms. She has provided some with literature about services available in South San Francisco, others with phone numbers to seek medical or legal assistance from the county and still others with just plain companionship and a friendly ear.

In the same block, she said, she often finds a senior citizen who is well off in the companionship of his or her family and another senior who lives alone and hasn't talked to anyone in days.

She met one woman whose husband recently died after many moths in the hospital. She was simply lonely, and Mrs. Lorenzan gave her information about the city's senior citizen center.

The woman plans to visit.

At another home she found an elderly man who was totally deaf. He communicated with her by using a pad and pencil. He, too, now plans to use the senior center.

"I have found in many cases there are people living alone who are bored and lonely," she said.

At a trailer park, she found a man very sick with emphysema. She talked with him for awhile and gave him literature about the senior center.

Mrs. Lorenzan, who has been a VISTA volunteer and has worked with the Campfire Girls, doesn't ask seniors to do anything.

She says she doesn't tell seniors she is there to help them. She introduces herself as an employe of the City of South San Francisco and tells them she's simply seeking persons over 50.

"I don't want to give them the image that I'm a Lady Bountiful social worker," she said.

Couples and men most readily let her in the door. Women living alone, she said, are timid.

The project is funded only until January and then the city could take it over, if it is found worthwhile and funds are available.

"Most places, I have felt very welcome," she said.

Pregnancy, Not Panama Is Issue in Suburbia

By JOHN HORGAN
Times Staff Writer

Babies are making a comeback.

Yes, I know what you're thinking. The baby boom is over. It is chic to keep your family down to 1.7 children.

The statistics hardly lie. School enrollments are dropping all over the country. The average age of the populace is rising.

The era of the big family, the ultra Brady Bunch, seems to be finished.

But in some parts of suburbia, babies are back.

Take our quiet neighborhood for example. There, pregnancy is a common state indeed.

Mothers-to-be waddle magnificently from one chore to another, always being careful not to try to sit together in the back seat of a foreign car.

Fertility just seems to be the order of the day.

During an election year, you rarely find the conversation turning to thoughts of the balance of payments or the Panama Canal.

Rather, all you hear is chit-chat about the relative merits of disposable diapers and the influence of the Lamaze Method on the mental health of the husbands.

There are more members of the La Leche League around our place than Republicans or Democrats.

Every time my wife picks up the telephone, she expects to learn than someone else is pregnant.

Even the children are getting into the act, in a manner of speaking.

One little girl worried about the delivery of her impending sister or brother.

"Will the mailman bring her to the house with a stamp on her head," wondered the kid.

No, she was told. And get outside into the fresh air while you're at it.

The children already know more about birth than I do.

They sit around the house and thumb through books about the mysteries of the process.

I try to stay away from all this.

I want to be around just long enough to pay that whopping hospital bill.

Our doctor asked me if I wanted to be in the delivery room with my wife, who is due at any moment.

"No thanks," I muttered, shuffling my feet in his office. "I have to do yard work that day."

My wife glared at me and announced that she would be taking prenatal classes with her friend, a woman named Boss Nurse from a San Mateo hospital.

"Nursie will be my coach, turkey," hissed the glowing Loved One.

She then announced that I am to be a runner for the two of them when that day of fetal reckoning finally arrives this summer.

"If we want cheeseburgers, we expect to get them," she continued, patting her ever-growing tummy with a copy of Family Circle.

Boss Nurse also will be on hand in the delivery room.

I can't buck the two of them. If it's cheeseburgers they want, it's cheeseburgers they'll get.

Who am I to argue?

Still, one thing does trouble me: will there really be a stamp on the next kid's head?

Ryan Team to Probe Idaho Dam Break

San Mateo County Democratic Congressman Leo J. Ryan is in Idaho today as the head of a Congressional investigative team probing the collapse of the Teton Dam.

Ryan heads the conservation, energy, and natural resources subcommittee of the House Government Operations Committee. He is accompanied by Representative Gilbert Gude, R-Md., and four staff investigators.

Congressman Ryan's San Mateo office manager, Joseph Holsinger, said the team expected to be in Idaho today for an on-site inspection of the disaster.

Holsinger said, "He's had investigators out there for several days.

"They expect to report back to Congress on the needs of the people there, on why it happened, and what can be done to prevent this kind of thing as other dams are considered, and whether any further investigation is needed.

"In a disaster like this it is the tendency of any federal or state or local agency to make itself look good. He (Congressman Ryan) wants to make sure there's no cover-up."

Holsinger said Ryan's subcommittee is expected to make a report to Congress by the end of next week.

That report is related to early consideration of other dam projects which are now coming up, he said.

"They want to know if anything should have been done differently," he said. "There were reports of cracks in that dam that were repaired, and of signs of weakening that were ignored. Congress wants to know the real story."

Afternoon Rites Join SSF Pair

Friends and relatives of Kathy M. Christensen and Bradley D. Viall gathered Saturday afternoon to witness the couple's marriage at St. Veronica's Catholic Church in South San Francisco.

The newlyweds, who exchanged vows before the Rev. Bill Hughes, were honored at a reception at the Red Chimney Restaurant. They are honeymooning now at South Lake Tahoe before establishing a home in Daly City.

Kathy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Byrne of South San Francisco, was escorted to the altar by her father. She said her vows in a white gown with a veil and carried a bouquet of white and pink roses. Members of her bridal party chose rose print costumes with hats and bouquets of roses and white carnations.

Shirley Gorman was the maid of honor, and bridesmaids included Cindi Lucia, sister of the bride, Donna Sparks and Kathleen Viall, sister of the bridegroom.

Best man duties were performed by the bridegroom's brother, Timothy Viall, and ushering duties were shared by Thomas Viall, another brother, Don Stupi and Steve Aguilar.

El Camino High School is the alma mater of the bride. The bridegroom, an alumnus of South San Francisco High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Viall of South San Francisco.

Homeowner Charged With Arson

A Daly City man has been arrested for allegedly setting fire to his own home.

Benjamin D. Metts, 45, of 709 Skyline Drive, was the only one home when the fire broke out around 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in one of the bedrooms of his home in the Palisades area of Daly City, police said.

They said Metts ran to a neighbor's house to report the fire. Firemen, who arrived about 15 minutes later, said the fire spread rapidly and caused about $20,000 damage to the structure and $5,000 to the home's contents.

Police said Metts was arrested and charged with arson and public drunkenness. The two departments are investigating.

Bridge Games

Lt. Col. George Huffman finished first in the sixth annual Bridge Marathon sponsored by the women of St. Martin's Episcopal Church in Daly City.

Hugh Stone placed second, Pat Lindstrom, third and Mrs. Lee White was fourth. Elsa Carpenter was chairwoman of the event.

Beach Erosion Fought

The City of Half Moon Bay is once again casting a wary eye to the ever-present beach erosion at Miramar Beach, and this time residents of the unincorporated area are actively supporting measures to end it.

The trouble is, the erosion has become so extensive, the city is not sure it still owns property in the area.

Erosion at the site has been a problem since the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers constructed the Pillar Point breakwater in the early 1960s.

Construction halted the littoral drift of sand along the beach.

Wave action started to cut into the sandbanks of the Miramar area, and has now destroyed portions of Miramar Avenue, and left the city limits on the beach in several areas.

According to documents under discussion at Tuesday's Half Moon Bay City Council meeting, the Corps of Engineers has made several proposals to slow the erosion, but the cost of preventive and restorative measures has caused interest to falter, particularly among property owners at Miramar.

Now, interest has changed, because the accelerated wave action is threatening to cut several homes off from access, as well as curtail access to the beach area.

The corps has no money for construction of a sea wall at the site, but has solicited the city's support for a study to determine what action to undertake when funding becomes available.

According to City Manager W. Fred Mortensen, the only catch the city sees is the sharing basis on which the city would participate in the project, estimated to cost about $1 million.

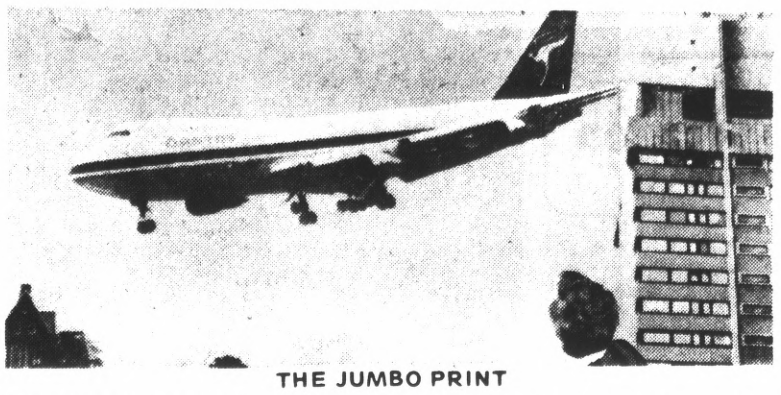
In a letter to the council, County Engineer S. H. Cantwell asked the city to determine if the cost sharing plan, developed in 1971, is acceptable to the city, and whether it would support interim measures until the corps project can be undertaken.

The council balked at the cost, saying that the city's share of the local funding was not justified.

James V. Power, 111 Mirada Road, Miramar, told the council that the attitude of the majority of property owners in the affected area now favor measures to stop the erosion, and urged the city's support for the federal study and program.

After some discussion, the resolution was passed, although Mortensen agreed that the cost of restoring the city's small property in the Miramar area is too high under the 1971 formula.

Powers also warned of the poor condition of a bridge on Mirada Road, which is closed to vehicular traffic because of undermining by wave action, saying it should either be rebuilt or torn down because of liability.



THE JUMBO PRINT

This is one of many prints that will be on exhibit at Octagon Gallery in the Daly City Civic Center, 90th and Sullivan streets, through July 30. The prints are from the Royal College of Art in London. Included in the show are lithographs, serigraphs and etchings by students and instructors at the college. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

Boat Trip Is Slated

The Pacific Parks, Beaches & Recreation Department has planned a canoe trip down the Russian River for June 29. The trip will start at Astri and wind down the river past Geyserville to Alexander Valley.

A steady flow of water is released from a dam upstream to provide safe and scenic canoeing. The river is clean and good for swimming.

Lunch and refreshments will be served on a sand bar down river.

Recreation Classes Slated

San Bruno Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring many interesting adult arts and crafts programs for the summer in both day and evening hours.

Drawing and composition for the painter is planned Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9 a.m.-noon. Emphasis for the course is placed on pre-planning and composition through drawing as well as relating to the other artists on all levels in a relaxed atmosphere.

Six ceramics classes are being offered in conjunction with the San Mateo Union High School District. Tuesday classes are offered at the recreation center from 9 a.m.-noon and at Crestmoor High from 7-10 p.m.

On Wednesday, two classes from 9 a.m.-noon and noon-3 p.m. are planned at the recreation center as well as Thursday from 9 a.m.-noon and 7-10 p.m.

A class in auto mechanics is offered at Crestmoor High on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights from 7-10 p.m.

Also, a business skills course is planned from 2-4 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursdays at Crestmoor.

Jewelry class will be held at Crestmoor on Wednesdays from 7-10 p.m.

At Capuchino, a Chinese cooking course will be offered on Mondays from 7-10 p.m.

For the senior citizen community, two programs will be held at the recreation center. "American Musical Heritage" will run from noon-1 p.m. on Thursdays and from 1-2 p.m. a "Kaleidoscope of History" will be offered.

A community theater group will be introduced at the Crestmoor Little Theater on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7-10 p.m. The group will last from June 1 through July 17 and will stage a production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pirates of Penzance."

All other programs will begin on June 14 and run through Aug. 5, with the exception of ceramics and auto mechanics, which will run until July.

Registration will be taken at the first meeting of the class.

For more information, call the San Bruno Parks and Recreation Department at 583-5295.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

Picnic time is here and some ideas for desserts that are easy to tote and eat seem in order. The most "toteable" and "eatable," of course, are fresh fruits. Apples, oranges, bananas, plums, cherries, grapes, melons all add flavor, color and a delicious coolness to warm weather eating.

However, most of us like to take along some homemade goodies and these easy to make and easy to eat cookies are just right for a picnic.

RAISIN SQUARES

3 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon allspice
½ teaspoon cloves
2 Tablespoons ground chocolate
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ cup chopped raisins
½ cup chopped nuts
3 Tablespoons whiskey or fruit juice

Separate the three eggs. Beat the yolks and add the one cup sugar. Beat well. Sift together the one cup flour, one-half teaspoon each cinnamon, allspice and cloves, two tablespoons ground chocolate and one teaspoon baking powder.

Blend the sifted dry ingredients into the creamed mixture. Next add the half cup each raisins and nuts and the three tablespoons whiskey. This mixture will be dry but don't worry; just add the three egg whites, which have been beaten until stiff but not dry, and mix well.

Spread about one-third inch thick in a greased and floured pan, about 9x13 inches. Bake in 350-degree oven about 20 minutes, or until firm to the touch.

Top with frosting made of one cup sifted powdered sugar and enough hot water to make it spreadable.

Cut into diamond shapes. This recipe makes about four dozen delicious diamonds. (We've all heard that diamonds are a girl's best friend . . . this variety even tastes good.)

Supervisors Slash Social Services

By BOB HEMINGWAY

In actions portending things to come in county budget hearings next month, the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Thursday:

• Voted to eliminate 21 positions from the Social Services Division and Alcoholic Rehabilitation Unit of the Department of Health and Welfare.

• Voted to terminate the 30-bed Alcoholic Rehabilitation Unit at Crystal Springs Rehabilitation Center effective July 1, and to institut a reduced private replacement facilities.

• Voted to discontinue the South County heroin detoxification center (menthadone clinic) in Redwood City.

• Voted to reduce the services of a speech therapist at Crystal Springs from full time to a half-time position.

• Voted to charge $1 for persons desiring an x-ray screening rather than a skin test for tuberculosis, with possibility that the x-ray fee will be increased to the $4 county cost.

• Indicated there will be more employe layoffs and reduction in services in the Social Services Division when the board again considers program cuts at its July 6 meeting.

County Director of Health and Welfare Dr. George Pickett appeared before the board and some 200 citizens and employes of his department in Redwood City to recommend program changes and the elimination of 59 filled positions, most of them in the Social Services Division, in order to reduce county expenditures in the coming fiscal year.

Before continuing action to its July 6 meeting at 3 p.m., the board endorsed having employes from the affected division give their recommendations concerning priorities for program reductions and employe layoffs to Mrs. Evelyn Stanton, chairwoman of the Citizens Task Force on County Governmental Operations, and to Mrs. Linda Gregory, business agent for Local 629, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes (AFSCME).

The employe imput was suggested by Supervisor Jean Fassler after a number of employes appeared before the board in its 3½-hour session to argue against program reductions.

The program and employe reductions are being recommended by Pickett because of the reduction in federal funding for social services programs and the board's policy of financing 25 per cent of program costs.

County Manager M.D. Tarshes informed the board earlier this month that the federal allocation administered through the state has been reduced from $3.6 million last year to $2.8 million this year and that it would cost the county $1.3 million beyond its 25 per cent allocation to finance the current level of programs.

Pickett said he is recommending the cutbacks at the present time, about one month ahead of county budget hearings, in order that programs don't get started at the current level of service in the next fiscal year, then have to be cut back to a greater extent should the board decide on reductions.

Pickett held out some hope that a bill currently before the state legislature will add another $800,000 in funding for the social services programs in 1976-77.

However, he said, even if the funds are forthcoming, it still will be necessary to centralize programs and eliminate the 59 positions. He said 13 persons could be transferred to other open positions, leaving 46 persons to be layed off.

The board's action Thursday in eliminating 21 positions not providing "direct" services to the public left it with a future decision on 25 further layoffs.

Pickett said that if his program and staff recommendations are adopted, he plans to further centralize social services in San Mateo, reducing the staff in the five district offices.

The central office, which presently has 18 supervisors and 96 staff members, would be staffed by 16 supervisors and 99 staffers, while the district offices would be reduced from their present 11 supervisors and 73 staff members to five supervisors and 22 staff members.

At the July budget hearings, if the $800,000 augmentation in funds has failed to materialize, he will have no choice but to "wipe out" the social worker program at the district offices, the health director warned.

Speakers from the Social Services Division expressed concern at Thursday's meeting that by cutting back on preventive programs, such as protective services to abused and neglected children and to dependent adults, the county could find itself paying more for corrective services in the long run.

Mary Johnson, a social worker for dependent children, said that with higher case loads, workers will have less time with families and there will be longer stays for children in foster homes.

"If a social worker prevents one child from being placed in an institution it will pay her (the social worker's) salary for one year," Mrs. Johnson asserted.

Estelle Stone, operator of the senior adult day care program, described the "elderly, frail, confused persons" with whom she deals, "isolated in their own homes."

Her service to some 200 persons has "prevented more costly care" in institutions, Mrs. Stone asserted.

Supervisor John M. Ward emphasized the quandary in which the board finds itself because of the financial squeeze. He noted that use of generic case workers is "the only way to save." Yet, he added, "one of the things before us today is to cut out that training."

Ward also contended that if social workers are being asked to accept increased work loads, then there should be a "direct relationship" of increasing the work of the social workers' supervisors.

Supervisor Edward J. Bacciocco Jr. drew loud applause and cheers when he suggested that the recommendation for deletion of social worker positions should also reflect additional cuts in the mid and upper management category — "those making $28,000 to $30,000 or above."

Bacciocco also said he would like to see figures concerning the relative cost between preventive services and "eventual services" to the extremely distressed; more definition of the effects in cuts on the population assisted," and information on the "unexplained relationship between the money reduction and the percentage reduction in programs."

Pickett said he could supply answers to all but the effects on cuts to the population receiving the services.

"It is impossible to assess the cost to society of not providing services," Pickett contended. "It has defied analysis for the past 20 years."

Folger Granted Picketing Limit

A temporary restraining order has been granted the Folger Coffee Co. limiting the number of pickets who may patrol the South San Francisco plant.

San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Robert E. Carey has set a hearing for 9:30 a.m. June 25 at the Hall of Justice in Redwood City on a show-cause order against Warehouse Union Local 6, ILWU and various other labor groups.

Coffee company spokesmen said they want them to be enjoined from alleged acts of violence, threats and harassment of employes and people doing business at the plant.

Judge Carey ordered that no more than six pickets be permitted at each of the exits at the plant pending the hearing.

Twenty-nine persons were arrested during a disturbance at the plant June 9 in which a management employe was injured. There has been no reported violence since a picketing warehouseman was allegedly struck by a security guard's auto June 10.

Pickets temporarily blocked a truck from leaving the driveway Thursday, but were dispersed.

Mayor Orders Hiring Freeze In Daly City

Mayor Anthony A. Giammona has ordered a freeze on all hiring in Daly City in an attempt to balance the budget.

The budget is almost $600,000 out of balance and the staff and City Council have been huddling almost daily in an effort to pare down the deficit.

City Manager David Rowe explained last Monday that the imbalance does not include wage or fringe benefit increases now being discussed by employe representatives at City Hall.

Except for government-funded Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA), temporary Recreation Department and Water Department positions, all other hiring will be curtailed effective today.

This move is expected to save the city some $120,000 over the next six months, Giammona said.

Rowe earlier had recommended the freeze on hiring, along with other alternatives directed at averting a crisis in city government.

The alternatives included raising the property tax rate, laying off employes and freezing the hiring list, depleting city reserves to meet the budget, a cutback on city services or a combination of the alternatives.

Beginning Aug. 1, Rowe must report each month to the council and outline staff vacancies that exist.

SSF Council Tries to Define 'In-Depth' City Services Audit

Twelve auditing firms submitted bids in South San Francisco this week but the City Council wasn't quite sure what it wanted to do with them.

Councilman William Borba had asked in March that the council authorize an "in-depth audit of goods and services."

Borba has refused to say why he wants the audit. And, at least one councilman, Richard Battaglia, and City Manager Ed Alario have said they just don't understand what Borba is looking for.

Nine auditing firms showed up at the City Council meeting Wednesday to explain their bids, which ranged from $8,500 to $15,000.

However, during council discussion it was revealed that the auditing firms had submitted bids for exactly the same kind of audit that has been performed by South San Francisco's Gus Chagaris for nearly 20 years.

In interviewing representatives of each auditing firm, the council asked the cost of a more in-depth audit and how each firm would conduct such an audit.

However, former Councilman Frank Mammini said the selection procedure being used by the council is unfair.

Mammini said that if the council wanted more than a general city audit, it should have been written into the specifications upon which the firms based their bids.

"Spit it out, gentlemen," he said. "Don't put out a set of specs that's the same thing we've had for 100 years."

Mammini said it was apparent each firm was prepared only to provide a general audit, as the city's bid specifications had indicated.

A more in-depth audit, one firm's representative said, could cost more than $20,000.

Mammini said it is unfair to ask 22 firms to submit bids for one kind of audit and later ask them to perform another.

Human Relations Unit at 'Standstill'

Asserting that the San Mateo County Human Relations Commission "is at a standstill," its chairwoman, Mrs. Mildred Swann, summoned the commissioners into an executive session Thursday night "to see where we are going."

Seemingly frustrated when there were no committee reports at the regular meeting because the commission committees had not met since the last commission session, Mrs. Swann asserted, "We've been dragging our feet."

"We need something to draw interest to the Human Relations Commission," Mrs. Swann stated. "We've got a task before us."

The chairwoman said she believes there should be a commission, "but we're not doing our job as human relations commissioners."

In its only action at the open meeting, the commission referred to the district attorney's office an anonymous letter asserting that Sheriff John R. McDonald Jr. "has systematically destroyed the usefulness of the San Mateo County Sheriff's Reserve by cutting back on its functions and destroying the morale of its members."

The letter alleged that McDonald promised reserves they could ride full patrol if they obtained Police Officer Standards and Training (P.O.S.T.) certificates, but reneged after 42 reserve officers obtained the certificates, denying he ever made such a promise.

The letter called for an investigation of the situation.

Commissioner John J. Norton, police chief of Foster City, said there is a bill currently before the state legislature which could solve the problem. At his suggestion the letter was referred to the district attorney's office "for comment."

Darker Nights Soon in Pacifica

The nights will soon be a little darker in Pacifica.

The City Council has approved a 33 per cent reduction in street lighting throughout the city — a savings of about $36,000.

After investigating for four months the feasibility of a street lighting cutback, the council authorized the move last week.

Director of Community Services Lester Clark had sent letters in April to the 12 homeowners' associations in Pacifica explaining the possible cutback.

Only five residents wrote letters to the city protesting plans to darken the city.

Priority lighting to remain in service includes lamps at intersections, crosswalks, sharp curves and other unusual situations, Clark said.

Pacific Gas and Electric Co. will charge about $700 to remove one-third of the city's lights.

The council said it was confident there was no major objection and voted unanimously to turn the lights out.

Assistant City Manager Don Jeffers said it will take several months for PG&E to carry out the lighting cutback.

Prize Rifle Claimed

John Schultz, a Los Altos stockbroker, has claimed ownership of an 1873 U.S. Springfield .45-70 rifle which was turned over to the Sheriff's Office earlier this week.

Schultz, who identified the rifle by serial number after reading accounts of its being found, told Sheriff's Lt. Richard Platt that it was taken from a burglary at his home last December. It was part of a collection of rare articles that he owns, Schultz said.

Platt said the rifle, the same type of weapon used by General Custer's 7th Cavalry, was found in an East Palo Alto apartment and turned into the Sheriff's Office.

Airport Hotel Service

Manfred L. Lazarus has been granted permission to purchase and operate a passenger stage service operating from various hotels near San Francisco International Airport and Union Square in San Francisco.

According to a state Public Utilities Commission decision, Lazarus has been granted the certificate of operation granted to James R. Nyhan and Marjorie R. Nyhan, doing business as Bomar's Charter Service.

Bomar's license had been revoked last December for failure to provide the PUC with evidence of adequate liability protection.

Subsequently, the Nyhans filed for permission to sell their license to Lazarus.

Le Pacini

I've been sitting here trying to figure out what's happened to my staid old world of baseball. The beginning of this column has been chucked out several times, because even as I go mad, baseball goes madder, and I now have the feeling that if I keep waiting for new developments before I finish this column, it will never be finished, because the new developments are becoming old just hours after they are new.

The Giants' situation . . . the A's garage sale . . . the freeze of the garage sale by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn . . . When in the hell is it all going to end?

One thing seems to become more and more clear. The oldtimers, the ones that the hotshots like Marvin Miller told us were living in another century . . . yes, those oldtimers who told us that the loss of the reserve rule would ruin baseball, may have been right.

Of course, the returns are early, but it looks as if all the dangers they warned us of, the rich clubs buying up all the stars, ad infinitum, are coming true.

Thoughts run rampant through my head, and they are hard to digest because they have such narrow pathways to travel . . . Does Charley Finley's wife get Vida's 1.5 million? . . . Is Charley liquidating? . . . Will he start running want ads in the Sunday newspapers . . . "Stocky third baseman, used but still with some good mileage, will sell or trade for superstar willing to perform for minimum wage, $2.75 an hour . . ."

How can players expect fans to be loyal to them when they are not loyal to the fans? . . . Don't they know that most good baseball fans are more addicted to team identity and hustle than they are to just winning? . . . And it suddenly strikes us that some of these boobs are actually under the impression that it is the owners who pay their salaries, rather than the fans.

A common argument of players is that they are in show business, and that therefore their profession can't be compared to the real world of secretaries' and plumbers' salaries. They point out the salaries of such genuine entertainment superstars as Frank Sinatra.

"Some of the best men in our profession," they bleat, "have to work six months for what Sinatra can pull down in a week or two in Vegas."

Part of that reasoning is reasonable, but much of it is falacious. Yes, there have been and still are some athletes who were worth the likes of Sinatra to their bosses in terms of what they could draw into the arena.

Certaintly Babe Ruth was worth more than the Yankees paid him; so were Sandy Koufax and Bob Feller, though they drew those extra fans only every fourth day. Nolan Ryan and John Montefusco probably fall into that category. Hank Aaron was worth his super salary, but only during the year or so when he was closing in on the Babe's record. Before then, and afterwards, he was a great but colorless player.

But real show-biz type entertainment is basically predicated on individual performance, whereas baseball, or football, et al, are team games, and, ultimately, more fans will turn out to see a TEAM win than they will to see an individual perform.

Do players like Derrel Thomas and Ken Holtzman really believe that fans come to the park to see THEM? Does Andy Messersmith really think he's worth a million dollars? There is only one athlete in the world today who is worth millions as an individual. That, of course, is Muhammad Ali.

I spoke of fan loyalty as opposed to player loyalty. Last year's Giants, remember, came in only one game below .500, and distinguished themselves as a gutsy club, one that often came from behind to, if not win, make it interesting.

It was a club on the rise despite so-called front office and managerial deficiencies. This year, though essentially the same club, it is a pathetic team, but the fans are back, coming in faster than fans are at Montreal, Atlanta, Oakland (even before the Tuesday Night Massacre), Cleveland, Milwaukee, Minnesota, and Chicago (AL).

But, then, the whole damned world (baseball world) is going nuts. Players climbing into the stands after fans who are just telling them the truth . . . and even if they aren't, they've paid for the privilege to perhaps exaggerate a little.

I have this dream. A player climbs into the stands after a guy and finds out too late that he's a former Golden Gloves middleweight champ. It may cure standsclimbers for all time.

Either that, or one of the players who can actually fight will punch some poor weakling and get his salary attached for the next 10 years.

The thoughts continue to race . . . When the Giants were always in pennant contention, Candlestick was an adequate park . . . And maybe the Giants still have a chance for the wildcard playoff berth . . . or is that some other sport?

When I daydream of being a Big League manager I call the club together and say, "All those who want to play in San Francisco for a big league club, raise your hands." The ones who raise them, even if they're reserves, get to start every game. The others, even the stars, are shipped to Phoenix.

And that might not be a bad idea. At least the Phoenix club knows how to score men once they get on base. Even though the minor league Giants are around the bottom of PCL statistics in batting and home runs, they are second in runs scored.

Maybe all of this can best be summed up by what a local high school principal, a non-baseball fan, said recently. "You know, people seem to forget that these athletes are all really kids, many of them not far removed from high school. And they're spoiled kids, at that. Maybe we're all expecting too much from them."

* * *

NOW, AS TO THE MONTENEZ trade. If it's true that the original trade with St. Louis, which Montenez nixed, involved Reggie Smith, does that indicate that the Cards are ready to give up on local boy Keith Hernandez as their first baseman of the future? We wonder if Keith would like to play in his home town?

In some ways, that trade for Smith would have been better for the Giants than the one they made for Marty Perez and Darrell Evans, because Smith is a better allaround player than any of the principla.s. principals. can out-run Montenez, is more versatile (he can also fill in at third and second), and can hit with the same consistency as Willie, but with twice the power.

On the other hand, Smith has tended to be injury prone, while Evans is a durable player, and a couple of years younger. He also hits the long ball more often than Smith, which is what the Giants really need now.

If he can untrack himself, he should be able to deliver about 15 homers for the Giants in what remains of the season, and that will be a plus.

As for Marty Perez, he's a steady performer afield (and God knows the Giants REALLY need that), and his batting average has increased each year he's been in the majors. And both Evans and Perez are from California and might actually like playing here.

* * *

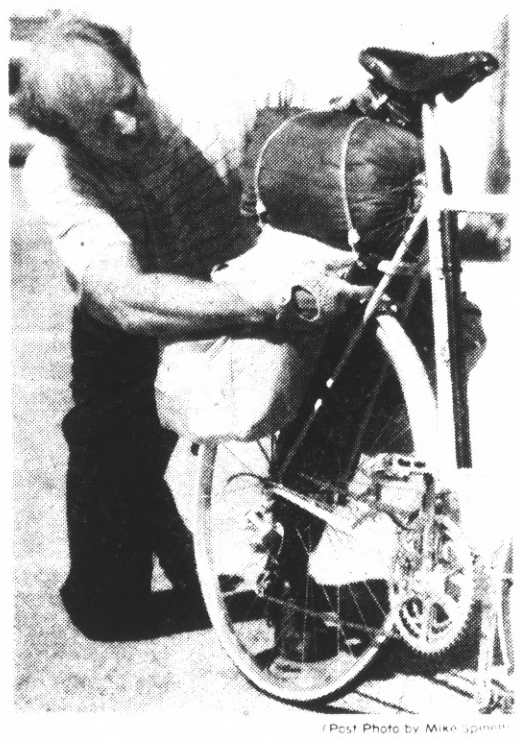
IF YOU PAY MONEY to see that match between Ali and Antonio Inoki, the Japanese wrestler, because you think you will see a legitimate effort to determine whether a boxer can beat a wrestler, you're wasting your money.

It's all been done before, most notably by Jack Dempsey, and not one of those mixed bouts has ever been anything but a phony. A good collegiate heavyweight wrestler could take Ali out within three minutes in a legitimate mixed bout. But don't think for a minute that Ali will lose this one.

It's Not England, But Police Take To Bikes

"None of us had ever seen the coast of Washington and Oregon before," said Burlingame Police Inspector Dan Hall, so he and two friends took their bikes to Canada and rode home.

Burlingame Officer Ken Snodgrass pulled out with a painful knee at Reedsport, Ore. Inspector Hall and South San Francisco Fireman Ron Francesconi kept riding.



(Post Photo by Mike Spinelli)

BIKER CHECKS HIS LOAD

Burlingame Police Inspector Dan Hall tightens the lashings on his travel kit after pedalling from British Columbia to the Peninsula.

"We figured that was the best way to see the sights," said Hall, "so we packed up our sleeping bags and camping gear and took off."

Flying to British Columbia, the trio started riding at Sidney, about 20 miles north of Vancouver.

"We got about 85 miles a day," said Hall. "It was great."

Following the twisting coast highway, the bikers wheeled through Coos Bay, Coquille, Bandon, Gold Beach and Brookings, Ore., and into Northern California.

"I took lots of pictures," said Hall, "I've got about 100 slides.

"We had good weather except for two days. It rained for two days while we were in Oregon.

"The highest hills are in California. They're a son of a gun. Roads that might be a bear in a car, are fun on a bike. A switchback is especially fun."

Southern Oregon's coastal highways are full of switchbacks, but Hall said the hills were only a few hundred feet high compared to the steeper hills of Northern California.

Dan and Ron got a good look at the roads, the hills and the scenery. It took them 13 days of pedalling to travel the nearly 1,000 twisting miles.

"We tried to eat breakfasts in coffee shops, you know," said Hall, "that bacon grease and stuff is hard to clean up" from camp cooking equipment.

Evening meals, however, were cooked over campfires.

Francesconi and Hall are experienced bike campers.

"Every month or so we try to go somewhere that's a decent ride, 100 miles or so.

"We have ridden to Los Angeles, to Disneyland, to Yosemite."

Hall's wife and daughters often fly or drive to the destination to meet the bikers and travel back with them.

"One thing they really like to do is drive down to Carmel and meet us there. The girls really like that; it gives them a chance to go out to dinner."

Hall and Francesconi both lost "about 8 pounds" on the Canada-to-Burlingame ride and are both in fine physical shape for men of 38 years.

Hall, for example, rides to work each day. That's 18 miles each way, 36 miles in all. He lives in San Francisco.

DiMaggio League Leaders Win

Eureka Federal Savings of San Mateo and South San Francisco remained tied for the Peninsula Joe DiMaggio League baseball lead at 4-2 Sunday after splitting a doubleheader.

SSF's Bob Humphrey and Tom Sutter combined for a 4-0 no-hitter in the first game with Humphrey going the five innings to notch his fourth win and Sutter finishing up. Eureka came back for a 4-2 victory in nine innings.

In other DiMaggio action, Lou's 66 of Pacifica swept San Bruno (4-1 and 6-1), and Flying Goose of Daly City two-timed Millbrae (2-1 and 12-3).

Steve Judge's tying two-run double in the top of the seventh and RBI singles by pinch-hitter Frank Aiello and Dan Rush in the ninth lifted Eureka to its nightcap triumph over SSF. Paul Fox outduelled Dennis Murphy over the distance, both recording eight strikeouts.

Dennis Fuller tossed a three-hitter and Jud Fisher's two-run single keyed a decisive three-run bottom of the fifth in Lou's opening win over SB. In the second game, Lou's rallied for all its six runs in the bottom of the sixth — three on Fisher's bases-loaded double.

Ron Sylvia three-hit Millbrae in FG's first game victory. Rob Baptista had three hits and Bob Woodcock three RBIs to pace FG in the nightcap.

Olympic Goal in Sight for Millbrae's Marilyn King

Special to The Post

EUGENE, Ore. — Marilyn King of the Millbrae Lions Track Club has had sights on a second consecutive Olympic Games ever since an injury turned her into a spectator at Munich in 1972.

Her goal is definitely within reach.

Monday at the U.S. Olympic track and field trials here, she was in the running for an Olympic berth in the women's pentathlon after upsetting the favorites in the high jump.

King leaped 5 feet, 10 inches for a lifetime best and became the 13th American woman to clear that height. She also finished fourth in the shot put with a heave of 41-11 and fifth in the 100-meter hurdles (14.37).

The MLTC star, who finished second to U.S. record holder Jane Frederick in the AAU pentathlon championships earlier this month, was third overall after the first day of competition.

Frederick led after three events with 2,715 points. The Los Angeles Track Club standout was first in the shot put, second in the high jump and third in the hurdles.

Second was Marilyn Linsenmeyer of Texas Track Club with 2,636 points, followed by King with 2,599 points.

The final two events, long jump and 200 meters, were scheduled for today.

Meantime, a pair of upstarts produced fireworks, some old veterans performed as expected and for the first time in three days of the trials the winners, not the losers, drew attention.

Edwin Moses, a 20-year-old junior at Morehouse College in Atlanta, shattered the American record in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles and Brenda Morehead rocketed to a near record in the 100 Monday.

And veteran Rick Wohlhuter gained another Olympic trip with an expected 800 victory.

Moses' time of 48.30 bettered the American mark of 48.51 set by Ralph Mann when he ran second in the 1972 Games to John Akii-Bua's 47.82 world mark.

Mann, 27, and Jim Bolding, 26, two of the favorites, fell behind and failed to make the team as darkhorse Quentin Wheeler and Mike Shine qualified instead.

Monday produced none of the big surprises or controversy which marked the first two days of this eight-day competition, when such stars as sprinter Steve Williams, pole vaulter Dan Ripley and shot putter Terry Albritton failed to make the team.

"I was aware (Mann) was there, but I didn't let it bother me," said Moses, an "A" student in engineering and physics. "I always run the last 100 strong. On the seventh hurdle I saw them fade."

Miss Morehead, 19, a freshman at Tennessee State, burst from the starting block and sped to the finish line in 11.08, a shade off the world record of 11.04 set three weeks ago by West Germany's Ingrid Helten.

"I felt good," she said. "I didn't think it (her time) would be that good." It was the second fastest clocking ever by an American, just off the 11.07 U.S. mark set in 1968 by Wyomia Tyus.

"I wasn't worried about winning as long as I made the team," she said. "I knew I needed to get out quick."

Second was Chandra Cheeseborough, another newcomer and, at 17, the youngest U.S. Olympic team member so far. The high school junior from Jacksonville, Fla., clocked 11.13 and was followed by Evelyn Ashford of UCLA in 11.22.

Wheeler, of San Diego State, the NCAA hurdles champ, said, "It was a very rough race. I dreamed about this and I can't believe it."

Shine, of Penn State, said, "When Bolding went by me I thought it's now or never; I gotta do it or die, so I just poured out my guts."

Wohlhuter unleashed his famous kick in the stretch and earned his second trip to the Olympics with a time of 1:44.78.

James Robinson, 21, who won the AAU title a week ago, slipped on the second turn and dropped back to last place midway through the race. But he moved outside and exploded nearing the tape, finishing second in 1:45.86.

Mark Enyeart of the Utah State Track Club struggled pst Villanova's Mark Belger in the last 10 meters to run 1:46.28 and round out the U.S. team in the two-lap race.

'The Spirit of Innovation' Featured at Exploratorium

"The Spirit of Innovation" debuts at the Exploratorium in San Francisco on June 30 and continues until Aug. 8, on the first stage of its national tour.

Sponsored by the Association of Science-Technology Centers (ASTC), the bicentennial exhibition uses a variety of graphic media to review the role of innovation in United States culture, focusing on developments in science and technology over the past 200 years.

In words, pictures and cartoons the exhibit traces the pervading and vigorous spirit of inventiveness as it has expressed itself from early pioneer days, through the Industrial Age, and into the 20th century.

It portrays conditions which confronted early Americans: long distances, labor shortages, plentiful natural resources, and shows how their innovative problem solving led to new methods of resource utilization, mass production of food and clothing, and revolutionary advances in communication.

It demonstrates how scientific and technical innovation have enriched American culture as well as facilitated everyday life.

The exhibition involves four major areas of innovation: farming and fooding, the democracy of mass production, the electric message, and the synthetic truth about megamolecules.

In addition, a central area introduces the special conditions which made the United States a fertile place for innovation.

As a supplement to the exhibit, the Exploratorium will display antique machines, tools and musical instruments.

Dr. Frank Oppenheimer, director of the Exploratorium, is the coordinator of the exhibition for ASTC.

"In keeping with the feeling of the show the designers, Deborah Sussman & Co., have developed many innovative techniques through which they are able to tell an intricate and complex story to museum audiences," the director said.

Primary funding for the project has come from the National Science Foundation with a supplementary research grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The "Spirit of Innovation" exhibition is free to the public.

The Exploratorium, at 3601 Lyon St. in San Francisco, is open from 1-5 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday, and from 7-9:30 p.m. on Wednesdays.

Bureau Elects President

Joseph Geller, Hillsborough, was named president of the San Mateo County Convention & Visitors Bureau during its annual election of officers at the Holiday Inn, South San Francisco.

He succeeds Jim O'Connor of Millbrae.

Other officers elected for one-year terms starting July 1 were: William Hardwick, Belmont Mayor, first vice-president; Joseph Greenbach, Jr., Atherton, second vice-president;

Art Montenegro, Jr., Brisbane Councilman, recording secretary; and Nick Gust, Pacifica Councilman, corresponding secretary. John Condon, San Mateo Councilman, was re-elected treasurer for a third term.

In reviewing the bureau's 1975 growth and its contribution to county economy O'Connor advised the board that Jan. 1 - May 1976, $1,570,750 visitor dollar volume was 203 per cent over last year's, for a total dollar impact of $4,250,250.

This later figure is developed by multiplying the known convention visitors by their $50 estimated daily expenditure, times a 3.8 average stay times the seven-time money turnover impact on the community.

During the same 1976 period, 12,565 room nights were booked for a 113 per cent increase over last year's 5,875.

Papan Backs Park-Harbor Consolidation Proposal

Assemblyman Louis J. Papan (D-San Mateo County) has announced his support for a plan calling for the consolidation of the San Mateo County Harbor District with the San Mateo County Park and Recreation Department.

In a statement issued to the press, Papan said that it is illogical for the taxpayers to continue to support a special taxing district like the Harbor District when the county, through its Park and Recreation Department, is already operating the largest harbor facility in the county.

"By consolidating the Harbor District with the county, such duplicated costs as district manager, legal, and public relations could be reduced or eliminated, thereby saving the San Mateo County taxpayers money," Papan said.

In making his statement Papan emphasized that his decision to support consolidation of the district with the county does not reduce his support for the proposed improvements at Pillar Point Harbor. "In fact," said Papan, "if anything it will insure that the overall project will be even more of a success."

"The whole idea behind the creation of a special district in California is to provide needed services to areas that do not have an agency capable of providing such services." Papan said. "In this case the county already has the ability to manage and operate the Pillar Point Harbor." In conclusion the assemblyman said, "it would be a waste of money to continue to duplicate these services as is now being done."

Gem and Mineral Show Has 'Spirit of '76' Theme

"The Spirit of '76" is the name selected for the 37th Annual Convention and Show of the California Federation of Mineralogical Societies, Inc., hosted by the San Francisco Gem and Mineral Society, at the Cow Palace, Geneva and Santos Streets, on July 2, 3 and 4.

Show hours will run from 10 a.m. — 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and from 10 a.m. — 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Daily admission is $2.

In keeping with the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the country's birth and of the City of San Francisco as well, the "Spirit of '76 Show" will feature California's historical past in the mining, geological and mineralogical fields.

Special displays will be of jade, gold and the rocks, fossils and minerals from each of the 58 counties of the state.

More than 500 displays are expected — composed of both competitive and non-competitive cases containing lapidary work of all types: intarsias (some outstanding ones of California missions), mosaics, gemstone carvings, metalcraft and original jewelry designs in gold and silver, faceted gemstones, rare minerals from around the world and even fluorescent minerals that glow in the dark.

Unusual tables of petrified wood, jade, and gemstone mosaic will be shown. There will be an outstanding exhibit for the blind: formations that they may touch and "see with their hands."

Demonstrators will be showing the visitors the actual processes of lapidary techniques and will answer questions.

Dealers have been selected to give the craftsman, the collector and also the beginning rockhound a wide variety of materials and specimens.

Well-known speakers, such as Paul Desautels, curator of mineralogy of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., John Sinkankas, William Sanborn, and a number of other authorities, will present lectures and bring along items for display.

Among the items from the Smithsonian will be Empress Marie Louise's diamond and turquoise tiara, given to her by Napoleon Bonaparte to celebrate the birth of their son, the King of Rome, in 1811; an 82 ounce gold nugget, originally found in a placer deposit near Greenville, Plumas Co., Calif., and a magnificent magenta jadeite dragon vase — perhaps the finest five-color jadeite vase in existence.

A four and a half ton jade boulder recovered from the waters off the coast of Big Sur will be on display.

Enthusiasm For Black Musical

Just before the audience broke into enthusiastic applause on the final note of the black musical, "Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope," which opened last week at the Marines Theater, they were linked in friendship by a joining of hands throughout the theater.

And before that, the audience was drawn into the joyful singing of a church service where the congregation responded at the urging of a strutting, egotistic preacher.

When you can get strangers assembled together for what they expected to be a passive evening's entertainment to participate emotionally and unselfconsciously, there is a strong musical force at work. And it happens every night in the same way. Few people can resist the rousing music that Micki Grant composed or her lyrics that speak of the struggle that has become more universal than black.

The exuberance generated by the revival of the internationally acclaimed musical of 1972 should keep the natives and tourists restless all the way through summer and into the fall. Directress Vinnette Carroll has honed the show to perfection and her performers appear to thrive under her able tutelage. Edmond Kresley's choreography covers a wide spectrum of dancing styles from soft-shoe timestep and calypso to jitterbug and African tribal leaps. Every musical expression from the blues and ballads to spiritual is vented in song.

The revue traces the struggle of American blacks through the rat-infested ghetto of Harlem to bus desegregation in Alabama. The company assures that "Time Brings About A Change" and confirms its commitment to fight with "They Keep Comin'."

Some of the bite has been softened since the revolutions (black, women's and sexual) altered America's social conscience. The humor in predicaments that blacks once viewed militantly unifies the 25 songs and dances into an infectiously spirited statement.

The timing, energy level, vocal power and dance virtuosity are razor-sharp and the riches of the happy event cascade over the stage with abundance. On several occasions, performers of the 11-member cast move through the audience and spread their voices around the theater to excellent effect. It serves to loosen up the audience and prepare them to share in the shouting at the close of this multilevel musical revue.

"Good Vibrations" might be the better title for the show because it sums up the virtues of the evening better than "I Can't Cope." They cope very well and admit it at the end of the song that has been updated with references to Jerry Ford's swimming every day so "the nation can see I'm clean."

Sheila Ellis is a knockout blues singer but Nell Carter, Charlaine Woodard and Leslie Dockery also make their presence known with outstanding song solos. Nat Morris, who was with the show here three years ago when the American Conservatory Theater sponsored it the first time, sings the deeply moving "My Name is Man" with a burning conviction.

Every Hayes pulls the audience to its feet with the electrifying "Sermon" and Clinton Keen gets well meant laughs with "You Think I Got Rhythm?"

ACT knows how to jolly up the summer. All you have to do is follow the hint. The show is a winner.

Claim for $1 Million

A claim for $1 million in damages has been filed with the City of Pacifica by the family of Faulalogofie Pita Malae, who died on Feb. 9.

The family claims Pacific police officers used excessive force in restraining and arresting Malae, aggravating his heart condition and resulting in his death.

The $1 million claim was filed by David Malae of Pacifica, brother of the deceased man. The City Council has denied the claim and referred it to its insurance carrier.

A second claim for unspecified damages was filed by Andrew Capestro, attorney for Malae's father in Honolulu.

The claim is a preliminary action to filing a lawsuit.

Police Chief Mel Nelson said Malae allegedly assaulted two teen-agers on their way to school on Feb. 9.

When Officer Gary Roberts and Sgt. B. R. Manley arrived at the scene, Malae became violent and the two officers were unable to restrain him, Chief Nelson said.

Malae, Nelson said, was more than six-feet tall and weighted 300 pounds.

Malae, he said, struck Sgt. Manley in the face and it was at that time that the officers used mace to subdue him.

The officers then called an ambulance to have Malae committed for psychiatric evaluation. They believed his behavior was unusual, Nelson said.

However, Malae, seated in front of the house, apparently stopped breathing. He was transported to Mary's Help Hospital and was pronounced dead. The coroner's office said Malae died of a heart attack.

Nelson said he asked the San Mateo County district attorney's office to conduct an independent investigation.

The district attorney's investigation, he said, concluded that the officers acted in a lawful manner.

Nelson said he is confident the death "was due to his physical condition prior to the time mace was utilized by the officers."

Goals for Improving County Government Efficiency OKd

Goals proposed by San Mateo County Supervisor Edward J. Bacciocco Jr. to provide principles on which the Board of Supervisors can build policy and to provide criteria for judging the efficiency of county government have been approved "in concept" by the board.

"The desirability of goals is undeniable," Bacciocco said in a written report to the board. "They offer county supervisors principles to build policy. They enable administrators to avoid political guesswork and instead substitute guidelines for planning and recommendation. They inform citizens why and to what degree government is necessary, and criteria to judge its elected officials.

Bacciocco's suggested goals:

• That the Board of Supervisors insist that governmental administration under its administration be effective and efficient in operation and delivery of services.

• That the county manager, within a year, recommend methods to measure the utility and excellence of department personnel and programs.

• That the county manager design a comprehensive social service plan for the county, differentiating those services offered and financed by federal, state and county governments.

In regard to the latter proposal, Bacciocco said the information provided will allow the board, assisted by staff and citizens, to rank and evaluate those social services not otherwise available, deficient in quality or quantity, of questionable community value, or duplicated by other providers.

Bacciocco said he feels adoption and implementation of his proposals will "make government more predictable."

$15,000 in Grants Given

Grants worth $15,000 were recently awarded to graduating high school seniors by the San Mateo Foundation, an amount allowing 41 student grants.

An additional $23,150 distribution was announced as follows:

• San Mateo County Arts Council, $3,620.
• Redwood Halfway House, $4,600.
• Boy Scouts of America, $7,100.
• Camp Fire Girls, $2,200.
• Resource Center for Women, $5,000.
• Peninsula Hospital Mental Health Unit, $630.

Uncertainty Hampers Employment Program

By BOB HEMINGWAY

The uncertainty of federal funding is hampering the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) program in San Mateo County, James Forrest, executive director of the San Mateo County Human Relations Office, reported to the Human Relations Commission Thursday night.

"No one knows who's doing what," Forrest said.

The executive director complained that persons admitted to the program for specified lengths of time are now receiving notices that they are being terminated as of June 30 before their training is completed.

"We set up training scheduling and wasted a lot of people's time," Forrest said.

The CETA program was established for the purpose of providing public service employment and training for unemployed and disadvantaged citizens.

Forrest said he intends to write the Board of Supervisors and to the county's Congressional representatives to complain of the situation.

He told The Times following the commission meeting of the problem the terminations are causing his office. He has two trainees in his office, Forrest said and, because they could perform necessary tasks, he didn't ask for additional personnel in his proposed 1976-77 budget. Now, he related, he is going to face some personnel problems because of the terminations.

Forrest said he could "get nothing" from the Redwood City administration concerning the terminations.

Redwood City Manager James M. Fales said today the terminations are necessary because of a shortage of federal funds. He noted that when trainees were hired they signed forms acknowledging that they could be subject to termination June 30.

"The flow of money is confusing and unreliable," Fales said.

Fales also reported that the city is terminating some CETA trainees hired previously when the city subcontracted with the Bay Area Urban League for its CETA program. It was discovered when the city took over as its own program agent that the hirings were illegal because the trainees were not residents of the city, as required by law.

The County Board of Supervisors has on the agenda for its Tuesday meeting a recommendation from County Manpower Director Fran David a recommendation for a resolution authorizing application for $1.2 million in increased CETA funds for the county.

Ms. David also is recommending that the board authorize an audit of all CETA funded subcontractors and program agents in the county.

Decision Favors Operators

When a card room operator takes a percentage or specified sum from each pot, he's not doing anything illegal, according to a court decision announced today.

The rendering by the Appellate Department of the San Mateo County Superior Court upholds a decision made by Municipal Court Judge Thomas B. Caldwell when he tossed out three gambling charges against San Mateo card room operators.

Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson had appealed Caldwell's decision.

Sorenson said today that he doesn't intend to further contest the ruling.

"If cities want to further control or prohibit card room activities they can adopt ordinances," he added.

The district attorney's office filed charges against Norma A. Maltesta, James Frank Montillion and Bernie Heckenkemper, alleging that when an operator takes a percentage from each pot, it constitutes a percentage game in violation of gambling laws.

Conversely, attorneys for the defendants and Judge Caldwell had asserted that the taking of a percentage from each pot is "logically indistinquishable from charging a rental fee."

The Superior Court judges — Frank Rouse, W. Howard Hartley, and Walter Capaccioli — said in their ruling that law permits the "house" to collect a fee for the use of its facilities.

"It is apparent that the inclusion of the term 'percentage game' in (the gambling section) does not prohibit nor describe the manner used by management for determining a charge for use of its premises or facilities and having no interest in the outcome of the game."

The three judges said they referred to other states for case law because such is lacking in California.

The cases they cited were determined in 1903, 1916 and 1889.

Take Over Water Unit

A recommendation that the Westborough County Water District be placed under the city of South San Francisco as a subsidiary district is contained in a sphere of influence study submitted to the San Mateo County Local Agency Formation Commission Wednesday.

Michael Johnson, administrative analyst for the LAFCO staff, said that under the proposed arrangement the district would remain a special district with its own separate tax rate and budget, but would be governed by the City Council rather than the present independently elected board of directors.

The commission took no action on the study, one of a series which LAFCO is conducting throughout the county to update sphere of influence reports made some years ago. They scheduled further discussion for the Aug. 18 meeting.

The report recommends assigning to South San Francisco a sphere of influence including the Rod McLellan Nursery, the County Club Park area, the California Golf Club and adjacent lands, the Ponderosa School property, the six-acre unincorporated area west of Highway 280 owned by Tom Callen Jr., a less than half-acre parcel adjacent to the Carl Sandburg School and two small unincorporated pockets in the vicinity of West Orange Avenue.

Action on the study was continued by the commission to allow time for affected agencies to comment on the recommendations.

San Francisco to Join Gas Suit

The City of San Francisco has decided to intervene in a gasoline price posting suit filed against the cities of San Bruno, Millbrae and San Mateo.

In a letter to San Bruno Councilman Gary Mondfrans, San Francisco Board of Supervisors President Quentin Kopp stated that City Atty. Thomas O'Connor has been directed to intervene in the suit.

Kopp said Thursday that San Francisco will seek intervener status from San Mateo County Superior Court and, if granted, will file a "friend of the court" brief.

He said San Francisco will offer only its legal services to the other three cities, and will not become a party to the suit. A Superior Court ruling, thus, will not directly affect San Francisco.

Superior Court rulings are binding only on the parties of a lawsuit.

Two years ago, Kopp coauthored a mandatory gasoline price posting ordinance in San Francisco. During the past year, the city councils of San Mateo and San Bruno enacted similar ordinances, and last March a gas price posting ballot measure was resoundingly approved by Millbrae voters.

Commented Kopp, "If the ordinances in the three San Mateo County cities are struck down, then it is likely our own ordinance will also be struck down.

"We (the supervisors) decided to participate for our own protection."

Kopp said San Francisco will not share in the legal costs of the suit.

Several months ago Richard Henson, attorney for the California Service Stations Association, filed a lawsuit against the three county cities claiming their ordinances were unconstitutional.

Told of San Francisco's decision to enter the case, Henson remarked, "It's just one more party (in the suit), and it makes the action we get accomplished all the more important."

Mondfrans said San Francisco is the only city so far to respond.

Pacifica Council to Clarify Mayor's Public Policy Role

Pacifica Mayor Janice Fulford was sharply criticized by her fellow councilmen this week for not representing the official City Council position in communications with other governmental agencies.

As a result, the council has asked that all communications between the mayor and other agencies be forwarded to the entire council and that a policy clarifying the mayor's role be written.

Councilman Stan Farber indicated he was surprised to learn that the council now must discuss any grievance with an elected official, including the mayor, in public session.

City Atty. Gloria Scheid pointed out that new additions to the state's open meeting laws permit a council to discuss only grievances with city employes in personnel session.

"Where were we when they passed that bill?" Farber asked.

The council, however, calmly discussed its discontent and unanimously agreed to set a policy.

The discord involved confusion over the official council stand on Route 380 — a $50 million freeway proposal stretching from San Bruno to Pacifica.

Councilman Nick Gust, 380 proponent, accused Mayor Fulford, a 380 opponent, of withholding from the council a letter by the state director of transportation concerning possible improvements to Sharp Park Road as an alternative to building the freeway.

The letter indicated funding to upgrade Sharp Park Road to be included in the state system would most likely not be available.

"It would be difficult for us to assume this financial responsibility in view of many other prioritized projects in San Mateo County," the letter said.

She also was criticized for statements she made to the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG) Executive Board implying that the council officially opposes the freeway proposal.

Gust said the new council, in fact, tabled discussion in March on an official stand for or against the freeway.

In effect, that meant the official stand of the previous council supporting the freeway construction was still in effect.

He also pointed out that the voters of Pacifica indicated a clear preference for construction of 380 in a referendum in March.

Mayor Fulford, however, had told ABAG that, "In opposing the 380 extension, the present Pacifica City Council majority put their political credibility on the line."

Gust and others pointed out that the statement was directly contradictory to what actually occurred.

"There was a misreprensentation by the mayor to ABAG," Gust said.

Finally, Gust said the mayor misrepresented the council at a recent San Mateo County Council of Mayors meeting. She had abstained on a motion endorsing the Pillar Point Harbor in Half Moon Bay despite the council's official stand in support of harbor construction, he said.

Gust said the mayor acted out of her own interest, not those of the council in those issues.

"My concern is for City Council policy," Gust said. "The air should be cleared as to where we stand with the position of the mayor."

Gust said he strongly believes the mayor should represent the official city position when addressing another government agency no matter what the issue or the mayor's personal preference.

However, Councilman Sidney Lorvan pointed out that the mayor also must act according to his or her own conscience.

"It is a major issue," Lorvan said. "It's a bigger issue than the highway. What kind of representation do the people of Pacifica want?"

Mayor Fulford said she did not believe she had done wrong.

She said that just after she received the letter from the state director of transportation, she was told to disregard the communication as no longer effective. That's why she did not forward the letter to other councilmen, she said.

"Since I was told to disregard it, I disregarded it," she said.

She also said she clearly told ABAG of the city's referendum vote in favor of 380 and that the city had no intention of financially participating in any Sharp Park Road improvements.

At no time, she said, did she indicate the council prefers improvements to Sharp Park Road as an alternative to 380.

She also said she abstained on the Pillar Point Harbor vote because she recollected that the council had tabled action, and she interpreted that as an abstention.

Families Asked to Host Japanese Girls

Peninsula families with an interest in international relations (and an extra bed) are invited to host 40 Japanese high school girls for two weeks this summer.

The girls and five of their teachers will be in this county from July 26 to Aug. 10. They are participating in "Summer in America," a home stay program sponsored by the American Institute for Foreign Study.

The girls range in age from 13 to 17. They will attend classes at Burlingame High School each weekday during their stay.

They will also share with their host families such scheduled activities as a Giants baseball game, trips to Fitzgerald Marine Reserve, barbecues, a night at the movies, and a farewell party with the students preparing and serving a banquet and entertaining the host families.

The Institute will conduct an orientation for prospective host families beginning at 7:30 p.m. Monday, June 21 in the Community Room of the Burlingame Public Library.

Coordinating the program is Marlo Faulkner, of 720 Vernon Way, Burlingame.

One of Four Robbery Suspects Surrender

William Percy Wood, 33, of San Francisco surrendered to Daly City police and was booked for armed robbery.

Wood, along with three other men not yet identified by police, had been wanted in connection with the holdup of Zales Jewelry, One Westlake Mall, Daly City last month. He surrendered shortly after 9 p.m. Friday, according to the report.

Police alleged Wood walked into the store with two other men, while a third waited outside in a parked car, forced the store employes to hand over several thousand dollars in rings and miscellaneous jewels and fled.

Details on how police identified Wood were not released.

He is being held in lieu of $40,000 bail.

Stabbed Man Sought

Daly City police today are looking for a man whose former girlfriend allegedly said she stabbed him in her apartment Wednesday evening.

The man, Theonzia Adams, 20, of 681 Sylvan St., Daly City, was stabbed more than once in the chest, but he has not been found and has apparently not been treated at a medical facility. The extent of his injuries is unknown.

Police said Michele Polite, 18, of 291 Price St. called at 5:45 p.m. and said she had just stabbed her former boyfriend in self-defense.

She allegedly told police she had known Adams for several years and that he once was her boyfriend. She said he was jealous of her present friends.

Officer David Zahradnick is investigating.

Ghiorso-Tiraschi Marriage

Yosemite and Yellowstone National Parks and Canada are on the honeymoon itinerary of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Michael Tiraschi who were married on Sunday at St. Augustine's Catholic Church in South San Francisco.

The bride is the former Marie Antonette Ghiorso, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Ghiorso of South San Francisco; her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Tiraschi of Daly City.

The Rev. Paul E. Duggan officiated at the 2 p.m. ceremony which was followed by a reception at Brentwood Lodge.

The bride wore a white gown with a blue train and carried roses.

Kathy Ghiorso, the maid of honor for her sister, wore a blue print and carried blue carnations. Other pastel gowns and flowers were selected by the bridesmaids who were Ann Ghiorso, another sister; Mary Labruzzo, sister of the bridegroom; and Jeri Wall and Carolynn Ghiorso.

Rosemary Ghiorso, who was her sister's junior bridesmaid, wore a white print and carried a basket of white daisies and pink carnations.

Thomas Shreve was Scott's best man and guests were seated by William Bates, Al Veronello, Mark Marin and Mike Tesinmeyer.

The bride is also the sister of David, Daniel and Michael Ghiorso. She attended Mercy High School and Skyline College.

The bridegroom attended Jefferson High School in Daly City and was graduated from Cogswell Polytechnical College in San Francisco.

The couple will live in Mountain View.

SSF Won't Ban Fireworks

South San Franciscans will contpnue to celebrate Independence Day with fireworks.

The City Council last week refused to act on a request by Councilman Emanuele Damonte that fireworks not be permitted in that city.

Damonte had asked the council to rescind an ordinance establishing permit fees and other specifications for the sale of fireworks.

That action would have made enforceable a fire code prohibition on the possession, storage, sale or use of any fireworks.

Fire Chief Lawrence Toellner said the fire department as well as the California Fire Chiefs Association, supports such a prohibition.

There have been eight building fires, 16 grass fires, one vehicle fire, one fence fire and nine burn cases in South San Francisco in the last four years as a result of fireworks, the chief said.

The council majority however, overruled Damonte's arguments that fireworks are harmful to the safety of residents.

They pointed to an attempt by the Pacifica Fire Department to ban fireworks in that city last year.

Councilman Richard Battaglia said such an ordinance would be ludicrous at this time.

Fence Battle Lingers in DC

Millbrae attorney Joseph D. Geller has been battling Daly City off and on for more than two years over a fence he contends violates a city ordinance.

It isn't that the fence blocks Geller's views. Rather, the chain link fence allows people to see into the lot it surrounds.

The fence was erected around a yard used by both the Broadmoor Towing Service and Westlake Tow Service for storage of wrecked cars and trucks.

Daly City ordinance 763, Sec. 18-3, Par. (a), states in part that an abandoned vehicle must be "completely enclosed in a lawful manner where it is not visible from the street or other public or private property."

The fence at the storage yard does not meet these standards, Geller said.

Community Development Department director Don Flemming, who first became acquainted with the case two years ago, agrees that the fence violates the law.

"I thought this had all been taken care of years ago," Flemming said this week.

Geller said he, too, thought the fence was up — until last month, when he tried to sell property he owns adjacent to the yard.

"The interested party went out to my apartment building, took one look at the yard next door — which is clearly visible — and changed his mind," Geller said.

Geller admits he knew the adjoining lots were used to store wrecked cars when he bought the apartment.

"All I'm asking is that the land owners comply with the city code. I'm not asking the yard be closed down or the cars moved," he said.

Field mice and rats have begun infesting his building, Geller said, insisting that the rodents are coming from the car lot.

"They (the owners) were supposed to put up a suitable fence, clean up the weeds and landscape the area to make it more presentable. But they haven't done anything," Geller said.

At one point, City Atty. Albert Polonsky pursued the issue.

On March 15, 1974, Polonsky filed suit in the Superior Court of San Mateo County against Fortunato Calegari, Betty Battaglia, Ida Giorni and 10 "Does."

Polonsky claimed "that on numerous occasions, said defendants have been requested to abate the nuisance existing on their respective properties due to the storage of automobiles thereon, without the required fencing, but defendants still refuse to abate said nusiance."

Without the required fencing, residents of the City of Daly City, particularly those residing in the surrounding neighborhoods "will suffer irreparable harm," Polonsky said.

Suddenly, Polonsky withdrew the suit. Nothing more was forthcoming on the issue from Polonsky's office.

"As far as I knew, the matter had reached an amicable conclusion," Polonsky said.

Actually, according to Geller, Councilman William Schumacher had instructed Polonsky to drop the matter. Schumacher at that point had interceded in the matter and contacted Geller, it was learned.

"I felt agreement could be reached (between Geller and those concerned) with less formality," Schumacher said.

He, too, said he thought the fence had been built.

"Mr. Schumacher knew the matter was not settled," Geller charged. "I wrote several letters to him on this matter. He failed to answer."

Schumacher acknowledged he did receive a letter from Geller on May 21 pointing out that the fence was not in compliance with the city code. "But I haven't had time to answer it," he said.

Geller's "fencing file" dates back to Feb. 21, 1973, when he wrote a letter to the late Bernard J. Lycett, then-mayor of Daly City, explaining his problem.

Fleming, in a March 28, 1973, letter to Geller informed the attorney that the lot owners had been requested to construct "an obscuring fence and to landscape the frontage to prevent the area from becoming an eyesore to the neighborhood."

On April 2, 1973, Geller responded to Fleming's letter. Again, on April 24, 1973, Geller wrote Fleming asking him when the lot would be cleaned up.

Fleming, in a May 3, 1973, letter said the owners had been advised to clean up the storage yard and the fence would be installed "within the next two weeks."

Subsequent letters went between Geller and City Hall hot and fast.

On May 7, 1973; May 16, 1973; June 14, 1973; June 18, 1973; June 21, 1973; Aug. 16, 1973, and Aug. 23, 1973, letters were dispatched.

Then, on Aug. 24, 1973, Fleming informed the three land owners — Battaglia, Giorni and Calzgari — that they must either clean up the yard, fence it and landscape it within 10 days or face the consequences.

Jan. 28, 1974, Geller wrote to Polonsky informing him that the fence still had not been built, that nothing had been done to spruce up the yard, and that he was becoming "extremely frustrated at the inability to rectify this matter."

Again on May 20, 1974, Geller wrote Polonsky asking the status of the lawsuit filed over the alleged nusiance. Ditto on June 3, 1974.

Schumacher's entry into the issue was via telephone in June 1974. He had then assured Geller the city ordinance would be adhered to regarding the fence.

Still nothing was done, Geller said.

Geller responded to Schumacher on July 19, 1974.

"If the owners don't cooperate, I will be forced to insist that the litigation (Polonsky dropped) be resumed," Geller wrote Schumacher.

Debate Slated

Congressional candidate Bob Jones of Belmont, a Republican, has challenged Democratic incumbent Rep. Leo J. Ryan to debate during the upcoming campaign, a challenge Ryan has accepted.
